OLD-SIGHT OR PRESBYOPIA.

This is the defect which nine times out of ten causes people to apply for glasses. It is caused by a hardening of the lens of the eye on account of old age and is the common lot of all, rich and poor alike. Old sight usually shows itself about the age forty to forty-five, when a glass of weak power will give the needed relief, but the lenses should be changed about every two years for a pair one degree stronger. Many people defer the use of glasses too long. Through pride they hate to resort to the dreaded spectacle, but it is utterly useless to fight age as far as our eyes are concerned. It is the part of wisdom to yield gracefully to the first signs of distress for the longer you put it off the more rapidly your eyesight will fail.

BERRY MEN MEET.

LARGE CROWD IN ATTENDANCE.

Many People Partake of Refreshments and Listen to a Good Program.

The annual summer session of the Wisconsin State Cranberry Growers' association that occurred at the experimental station on the Gaynor-Blackstone marsh on Tuesday was one of the largest meetings of the kind that has ever been held.

The crowd began to gather early, so by the time dinner was announced there were plenty to fill the tables and enough to spare for another round. The crowd seemed to be a particularly happy one and everybody was in good nature, so that a most enjoyable time was had.

To attempt to describe in words the quality of the dinner furnished by the ladies would only prove a slander, as it was simply beyond description. Some have remarked that there were certain ones who only seemed to go to these meetings on account of the dinner served, and have sneered at them for doing so, but they are justified in doing it and it only speaks for the quality of the dinner. Why, men went into the dining room looking like sand hill cranes and came out waddling like ducks. There were enough present to fill the tables twice, and as about 125 sat down each time, it is safe to say that there were 250 people present. Mrs. Potter and Mrs. Searls, who engineered this part of the program, and their corps of assistants are entitled to a great deal of credit.

After dinner was over the visitors wandered about the grounds, inspecting the experimental station and nursery and visiting among themselves or with their marsh friends. Then, while everybody was in good nature, Photographer Menzel lined the crowd up and had them look pleasant while he took their picture. This diversion over, the business of the meeting was started, as it was already getting late.

The meeting was called to order by President Briere, who, on account of the lateness of the hour, only spoke a few words. Secretary Pitch then made his report, opening it in his usual happy style, and putting the crowd in even better nature than before, if such a thing were possible. According to his figures as gleaned from reports and estimations furnished him from all over the country, the crop this year in the United States will equal about 295,000 barrels, against 400,000 last year. While it is estimated that the Wisconsin crop will exceed that of last year by about 25 per cent, the crops in the east will not be so large, cutting down the total by about 100,000 barrels. It was also estimated that this shortage would probably raise the price from 25 cents to 75 cents per barrel.

A. C. Bennett, who had a paper on "The Planting of Vines," was not present, but he had sent his paper and it was short and to the point. He stated that every man should plant his vines as he thought best, and then if he did not profit by his mistakes, his neighbors would, and that in the course of time he would learn how not to plant them.

Judge John A. Gaynor then read a paper on the Canadian fruit law. He told of the restrictions and requirements of fruit growers made in Canada, and expressed it as his opinion that the enactment of similar laws in this state would prove beneficial to the cranberry growers. Some of the requirements that he thought should be incorporated in a law were: That every grower should be required to brand each barrel with his name and address. That the barrels should be branded with the quality of the fruit, to be designated as Pie Berries, Standard, Fancy, or Crop Run. That pie berries should be those that would pass through a 3/4-inch screen; standard, those that would not go through a 3/4-inch screen but would pass through a 3/8-inch screen; fancy, those that would pass over a 3/8-inch screen. The crop run should be the berries as they come from the vines with the pie berries taken out. That sound berries should not have more than 5 out of 100 rotten ones in them, and that the standard brand should not have more than 4 per cent of pie berries in them. Also that the berries, when packed, should not become shaky inside of thirty days if properly handled.

As these recommendations were unanimously approved by the members present it was moved and carried that a committee be appointed to draft a law incorporating these requirements, same to be presented to the next legislature for passage. The president appointed as such committee Messrs. J. A. Gaynor, A. E. Bennett and S. N. Whitteley.

Mr. Chauey, who represented Peycke Brothers, was then called on for an address, and he gave a good talk on the subject of cranberries. He stated that he had in the past had very good luck with Wisconsin cranberries from the fact that as a general thing they were packed fairly well and were excellent keepers. He emphasized the matter of good packing and explained how his company could pay a better price for berries that were packed well and sorted and marked conscientiously. He also stated that from reports received by his company, they had estimated that the crop this year would just about equal that of last, as the extra production in Wisconsin would just about equal the shortage in the eastern states. His company estimates the crop in Wisconsin to be about 55,000 barrels.

Prof. A. R. Whitson of the department of agriculture, university of Wisconsin, then gave a short talk.

Mr. Whitson stated that he was not present to impart information, but had come to learn something of the methods of irrigation as used in cranberry culture, and intended to make a stay of several days. Later the matter was to be investigated in the university and any information gleaned would be for the use of the public in the future.

The price set for pickers the ensuing year was 45 cents per bushel, with a bonus of 5 cents per bushel for those that remain the entire season.

The matter of establishing a cranberry journal was discussed and although no action was taken toward the establishment of such a paper, resolutions were passed endorsing such action and favoring the project.

It was the consensus of opinion among growers that picking would commence this year on or about September 8th.

FROM THE PHILIPPINES.

A Splendid Collection of Relics From The Orient.

George R. Houston and E. J. Galyean of Grand Rapids, are in the city, guests of Dr. Russ Lyon. Mr. Galyean will return tonight and Mr. Houston will remain over tomorrow. Each of the gentlemen has served in the regular army. Mr. Houston put in twenty-five months in the Philippines, being a member of the Eighteenth Infantry band. He is now out of service. Mr. Galyean has served six years, and is now under his third enlistment, being home on a four month furlough. He saw service in Cuba and was at San Juan hill. He then went to the Philippines and he and Mr. Houston were comrades. The journey each way was by the Pacific route, and in going out they visited Honolulu.

While in the orient Mr. Houston wisely gathered a considerable store of relics and curiosities and these he has with him. Today they are at the office of Dr. Lyon where a few friends were permitted to view them, but tomorrow they will be on exhibition in the show window at Gns. Naffz' drug store. The collection, which includes articles from China and the Philippines, is one of the best that has come from that country and a full list would be too long for this article. Among them, however, is one of the urns in which the ashes of the dead are placed after cremation. It is made from dark colored rock from the Dead Sea, having Spanish and Arabian inscriptions. There is also a spade in a sheath taken from a dead boxer, such as they all carried. The collection of bones, daggers and knives includes about twenty different kinds, many of them dangerous looking weapons, but of little use in modern warfare. The bows and poisoned arrows of the original Filipinos, a tribe which now inhabits the mountains and was not concerned in the revolution, are toy affairs, but capable of doing much execution in the hands of those accustomed to their use. There are also quaint musical instruments, primitive tools, spoons and other articles made of cocoanuts and bamboo, woven native hats, cigars and cigarettes to the use of which almost all the natives are addicted, and other interesting things too numerous to mention. Mr. Houston's "mascot," a skull that has been christened "Carrie Nation," and "Carrie" is prevented from being lonesome by having the constant companionship of two other skulls and a few other human bones. "Carrie" is covered with inscriptions and dates of the important events of Mr. Houston's term of service and bears the index to enough information and incidents to provide material for a history of the campaign in which her owner participated.

Lovers of the curious and students of matters that pertain to the Philippines will find the display one of much interest.—Wausau Record.

Gun Club Scores.

The members of the gun club got out Sunday and held three events. The attendance was not large, but the scores made were fairly good. Following are the scores:

First event, 25 birds: G. W. Mason, 19; L. M. Nash, 17; W. J. Conway, 15; W. G. Scott, 14; W. S. Gardner, 13; W. A. Drumb, 22; S. Church, 16.
Second event, 25 birds: G. W. Mason, 17; L. M. Nash, 22; W. G. Scott, 13; W. S. Gardner, 7; W. A. Drumb, 25.
Third event, 25 birds: G. W. Mason, 21; L. M. Nash, 14; W. G. Scott, 24; W. A. Drumb, 21.

It is probable that the club will not hold more than one more shoot this season owing to the proximity of the hunting season, as those who have the time will put their energies to live bird shooting.

It is possible that next year the gun club will erect a club house near the city and do their shooting on week days instead of Sunday, which will make it more agreeable for all concerned and probably be an inducement to parties to join the club and participate in the shoots who have religious scruples against shooting on Sunday.

Helen Burns.

Helen, the three year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Burns, died in this city on Friday night from the effects of an attack of scarlet fever. The little girl had got through the disease all right and her recovery was considered only a matter of a short time when other complications set in and death resulted. Mrs. Burns and her little daughter had been visiting friends here when the little girl was stricken with the disease, their home being at Iola, where Mr. Burns is employed as an engineer.

THE BALL STARTED.

REPUBLICANS NAME OFFICERS.

Things All Go About as Fixed by the Machine with Just a Few Surprises For All.

The republican convention to nominate officers for Wood county met in Marshfield on Monday evening.

With a very few exceptions all of the towns of the county were represented. The meeting was called to order by H. Wiperman. C. S. Vedder of Marshfield was elected chairman of the meeting, and Geo. Reynolds of the same place clerk. Geo. Brown, A. E. Bennett and T. A. Taylor were appointed as tellers.

A committee on resolutions was then appointed consisting of J. E. Ingraham, Ed. Dumas, Emory Ayers, E. C. Ketchum and Wm. Hooper. A recess of twenty minutes was then taken to allow the committee to perform its labors.

When the meeting was again called to order the committee submitted a set of resolutions endorsing Senator Spooner and his efficient work done for the state in the capacity of a United States senator, which were unanimously adopted by the convention.

The matter of nominating a county ticket was then taken up, the first being that of assemblyman J. C. Davis of Richfield then made a speech nominating Frank A. Cady of Grand Rapids. The nomination was made unanimous.

Wm. Hooper of Nekoosa then made a motion to the effect that E. A. Upham be nominated for register of deeds, E. S. Reine for county clerk, Jacob Seales for county treasurer and C. A. Padawiltz for clerk of court, and that the clerk be instructed to cast a unanimous ballot for same. The motion was carried, and these gentlemen declared to be the nominees of the convention.

The matter of sheriff was then taken up. This was one of the few offices on which there promised to be a fight, and there was no disappointment. On the first ballot there were 62 votes cast. Of this amount John Ebbe received 24, Charles Lester 20, Geo. H. Smith 12 and J. E. Berg 6. On the second ballot there were 61 votes cast, Ebbe receiving 27, Lester 20, Smith 8, Berg 3 and John Lindahl 3. On the fourth ballot for sheriff there were 64 votes cast; 30 for Ebbe, 23 for Lester, 6 for Smith, 3 for Berg and 2 for Lindahl. On the fourth and last ballot Ebbe received 33, Lester 27, and Smith 4. This gave Ebbe a majority of all the votes cast and he was declared the nominee of the convention.

Jacob Lust of Milladore was then nominated for Coroner and Luke Pitts of Pittsville for county surveyor. Theodore W. Brazeau of this city was then nominated for the office of district attorney.

For the office of county superintendent there were three aspirants, they being O. J. Len, the present incumbent, Robert Morris of Arpin and A. E. Falch of this city. B. M. Vaughn presented A. E. Falch to the convention, Judge Andrew of Marshfield brought forth the name of Robt. Morris and George Varney spoke for Mr. Len. Mr. Len then addressed the delegates explaining his position on political matters, and the matter went to a vote.

The nomination was settled in one ballot, Len received 7, Falch 12 and Morris 30.

W. D. Connor was elected chairman of the county committee.

The delegates elected to attend the senatorial convention were Frank A. Cady, Wm. Hooper, Ed. Dumas, E. E. Finch, E. S. Baily, E. Eichsteadt, Chas. Ecklund, A. L. Fontaine, C. E. Anderson, Dr. Houghton, A. E. Lapham, LaFayette Porter and E. Smith. The delegates were instructed for Herman Wiperman of this city.

Mr. Cady then thanked the members of the convention for the honor conferred on him, and Mr. Morris also said a few words. T. W. Brazeau made a short address, also thanking the convention in a few well chosen words.

The Coal Supply.—A matter that is now agitating the minds of some of our citizens is where they are to get their winter supply of coal. We don't happen to need any coal just now, but the person who is a habitual resident of Wisconsin knows that there are cold days coming, when a ton of coal in the shed is a very necessary adjunct to housekeeping. During a talk with one of our coal dealers recently, the query as to what coal was worth brought forth the reply that it was only $9.50 a ton, but that he did not have any. And what was more, inquiry of dealers further south had elicited information that it was impossible to obtain any at present, and that there was no telling when they would be able to fill orders. In the large cities consumers are burning anything that can be obtained to take the place of their regular supply of hard coal, with a very dismal prospect for the coming winter. People who have complained that coal was cheaper than wood will probably find the matter reversed the coming winter.

Change In Location.—On the first of September the firm of W. Gross & Co. will occupy the building on the corner formerly used by Corriveau & Garrison as a general store. The new firm will make an exclusive grocery business of the place and promise to give the people of this section one of the best places of the kind there has ever been in this city. Messrs. Gross and Lemke are both young men of more than usual business ability, in fact have always proven to be hustlers and there is no question that in their new location they will be able to command a very good trade. The building into which they are going has an abundance of room, a thing they have been crowded for heretofore, while the location cannot be beaten in the city.

Looking for Water.—A gang of men have been at work on the property on the east side near the pumping station digging wells with a view to securing water for use in the water-works system. Up to date they have not met with as much success as had been hoped for, but there is still a lot of ground to go over and they may strike a lead at any time that will give an abundant supply. Many people have been rather skeptical about securing enough water at this point to supply the city, but it is to be hoped that the search will be successful, otherwise our citizens will have to be content with a mixture of river and spring water, which would be quite a disappointment to those who have looked forward to the time when they would have pure spring water to use.

Democratic Caucus.—If you make any pretense of being a democrat do not fail to attend the caucuses on Saturday evening. Delegates will be elected to attend the convention at Marshfield, where delegates will be elected to the state convention, as well as delegates for the congressional and senatorial conventions. Don't imagine that they can get along just as well without you, for they can't. There was never a time in the history of Wisconsin when it was so necessary to put up good men for office, and the way to get these good men is for everyone to take an interest in political matters and be on hand to voice their sentiments.

Bridge Contract Let.—On Wednesday evening the bidge committee awarded the contract for reconstructing the bridge to the Modern Steel Structural company of Waukesha for the sum of $15,437, this being the lowest bid of the three submitted. The reconstruction will consist of replacing the woodwork with iron, widening the walks to seven feet and placing a metal hand rail on both sides. Owing to the inability of obtaining material promptly the company would not put up a forfeit against any certain time, although it was the desire to have the time made March 15. An attempt will be made to finish the work during the coming winter.

Sign Your Name.—When you send in an item of news to the Tribune don't forget to sign your name at the bottom. We don't want to publish your name, but we do want to know who the author is. Another thing: Get in your news items before Wednesday afternoon as pretty generally too late for publication that week. Every week items are left out on account of neglecting to observe the above rules, and they will continue to be as long as these rules are not observed.

Low Water.—During the past week the water in the old Wisconsin has been down to just about the bottom notch, so low, in fact, that most of the mills that run by water power have been compelled to shut down a part of the time, while others have been able to operate only a part of their mill. The Grand Rapids Foundry and the Pioneer Wood Pulp company were both entirely closed for several days. Old residents, who have noticed the stage of water from year to year, say that it is the lowest in their knowledge.

Buying Chickens.—A party passed through this section last week engaged in buying chickens for the southern market. He stated that he was merely contracting for the fowls and that later he would have a car here to take them away. He was willing to buy anything in the shape of a chicken that was alive and said that they could all be disposed of to advantage. He agreed to pay at the rate of 60 a pound for old chickens and 80 for young ones.

Case Dismissed.—S. Rawson who was arrested on complaint of Game Warden Brown for killing prairie chickens out of season, was arraigned on Friday. When the case came to trial, District Attorney Wiperman stated that sufficient evidence had not been secured for conviction and he recommended the discharge of the defendant, which was done.

Caught Chicken Hunters.—Deputy Game Warden Brown and another warden caught two hunters over the line in Portage county in the act of killing prairie chickens. The offenders were taken to Stevens Point where they were fined $50 each with the costs. One of the men was from Bancroft and the other from Oshkosh.

Marriage Licenses.—Louis J. Putnam of Vilas and Kathryn Walsh of Marshfield. Fred Cronstedt and Hilda Stolberg both of Sigel.

CHAPTER I.

From the towers on top of Darrel Chace, looking in three directions, one might gaze upon the broad domain that now was the inheritance of Roger Darrel.

A year previous his father had died, leaving all to his son. Before and after that sad event the young man had traveled over most of the known world, but at last, weary of wandering, he had come back to his native land, and once more trod the domain that had been in the family for generations.

On three sides could be seen the broad stretch of rich upland that called him master; over the avenue of elms of the ivy-mantled walls of Richmond Terrace.

How well Roger remembered spending half his boyhood days in the strange manor house. His father and Lawrence Richmond had been bosom friends, and this intimacy had continued until Roger was over twelve years of age. Then some trifling dispute about a boundary line arose, and, both being men of passionate tempers, it had waxed warmer until it assumed the proportions of a family feud.

The families were separated, and never to this day had Roger Darrel set foot upon Richmond property. When his father lay dying, he would have bridged over the chasm of hate, but Lawrence Richmond was either away, or else refused to grant the request, Roger never knew which.

Some years before, the young man had heard that the whole of Richmond's family had been swept away by a pestilence while in the South, and that the bereaved old man had shut himself up in his manor, refusing to see any one but the servants.

There were few who knew Roger Darrel had returned to the house of his ancestors; they believed him still to be traveling in foreign lands, and the young heir made no attempt to undeceive them. He had no desire for company, but had come home for rest.

The day was bright and lovely. Wandering through the brave old forest that stretched out for miles back of the two plantations, the young master of Darrel Chace came upon the prettiest scene of a lifetime spent among what have been termed the beauty spots of the world.

Upon the bank of a picturesque little brook that sang noisily as it wound its way through the forest, a young girl sat with her back to him, but with her eyes fastened upon a little skye terrier came now, sorry I ventured to be so rash, but, having risked all, am not the man to turn back. I shudder to think what would be the result, if exposure came when I had won her love—had grown to think dearly of her myself. Heaven prevent it."

As the steward of the great estate, Darrel Chace, the young man would and won Carol Richmond. She had led a somewhat lonely life, and he had dived upon it like the prince in a fairy tale. To her he was all the world. Her love was not demonstrative, but it would live through time to eternity. Changes might come, bringing sorrow in their train, but the love of Carol Richmond, once gained, would last forever.

Roger Darrel should have been the happiest of mortals, as, standing in God's temple, the forest, he and Carol plighted their troth; in the sweet, hopeful future it should be "each for the other through time and eternity."

Although he had decided that the past must not come between him and Carol, yet there were times when a fearful dread seized upon him with such force as to make him shudder.

What if she should learn the truth in some way; would she not hate, despise and loathe him? Was ever man placed in such a fearful dilemma? Duty lay on one side, love on the other. He closed his eyes, and blindly rushed on to his fate.

It was in the latter part of July, and for the time of year the weather was delicious. Roger and Carol were seated on an old log in the picturesque forest, watching the antics of little Edda, and looking through the green aisles of the romantic woods.

They had been engaged over a week now, and on this very day Roger had decided to disclose his personality to his betrothed. They talked of the future, and how happy they intended to be, little knowing or realizing what a shadow was hanging above them, even at that moment.

While Roger and the girl he loved with heart and soul sat thus upon the old log, the sound of heavy footsteps close at hand came to their ears. The two lovers sprang like frightened deer to their feet, and as they did so Roger heard a fierce invective uttered in a low, deep voice.

Standing within ten feet of the two lovers was an elderly man, one who had evidently reached the age of three-score years, as was indicated by his iron-gray hair and beard, the former of which fell words gave way to a look of implacable hate and savage fury.

"You are other than I believed," he finally gasped, rather than spoke.

"I am Roger Darrel," replied the young man, simply.

"Then you are my bitterest foe. You thought to strike a blow at my heart, by stealing my pet daughter, but heaven has thwarted you, you villain," grated he, as one hand grasped Carol's wrist and drew her to him, while with the other he shook his heavy cane in Roger's face.

CHAPTER II.

The action of the old gentleman was so aggressive that Roger instinctively fell back a pace before the threatening cane, but he speedily recovered, and faced the enraged man calmly.

"Believe me, Mr. Richmond, I declare to you on my honor as a gentleman—"

"Honor! A Darrel speak of honor! Come, now, that is too good, young man. The blood leaped into Roger's face at this insult. A younger man would have paid the penalty of his rashness on the spot. Lawrence Richmond's age caused the young man to hold his impulse in check.

"Mr. Richmond, you and my father were enemies, but at his death he would have had you with him so that he might have asked your pardon for his share of the difference existing between you two. Whether you ever received his message, or not, I do not know, but you gave no sign. He is in his grave now, and I, his only son, have given you no reason to hate me. Then why should we not be friends? There was a time when you dangled Roger Darrel upon your knee; will you now refuse to even clasp his hand?"

"Friends!" almost shouted the old man in his ungovernable rage, for he possessed a fearful temper. "I tell you I hate your name; I hate your face; I hate even the sight of your presence. Go from here, and never let my daughter see your hateful countenance again. Touch your hand? Sooner would I clasp a viper whose fangs were laden with poison. Once for all, Roger Darrel, let me tell you we can never be friends; we shall be enemies to the death. I am a man of iron will, as perhaps you know, Carol, look your last on this man who would have caused you to weep tears of blood; then come with me."

For one minute they stood looking into each other's face; then the savage old man wheeled, and still retaining his hold of Carol's wrist, walked away with a vigor that was surprising, considering his age, and yet which stamped his words true; he was a man of iron will.

Slowly Roger made his way home, but the broad domain over which he had so lately gloated as the home to which he would bring his honey bride had lost all its charms for him.

Hardly had he passed from Carol's sight, down the forest aisle, before the bushes rustled not far away, and a female form thrust itself into view, a girl's face, with the largest black eyes imaginable, which were flashing with mingled fires. Her sudden and weird appearance startled Roger, and caused him to spring back out of her way.

She passed swiftly on, muttering vehemently to herself, but Roger was so deeply absorbed in his own sad love affair that, having recovered from his surprise, he paid no further attention to her.

He did not see the girl suddenly turn, cast upon him the intensest freight of those flashing eyes, nor hear her awful threat.

"The blow is falling, Roger Darrel, and it shall be the hand of the despised gypsy that sends the poisoned dart into your heart. Pain and trouble—they shall come to you through Barbara Merrilies!" (To be continued.)

Her Preference.

Sada Yacco is a charming Japanese actress, who is not only professionally delightful, but in private life tells exactly what she thinks in a way which offends nobody.

Not long ago, says the New York Sun, she was honored, during her stay in Paris, by a request to appear at a private entertainment to be given by Monsieur Loubet, President of France. Every one was delighted with her recitations, and the President brought out and presented to her an exceedingly rare and valuable Sevres vase.

The little lady was pleased, but not for that reason did she ignore the practical side of the question. She gazed at him with that beaming and childlike smile only to be attained by the Japanese.

"Very sorry," said she, in her soft, broken French. "Very sorry. Not take vase to Japan. Too far. Get broken. Take money. Very sorry."

The onlookers gasped, but Sada Yacco still beamed upon the President. She was serenely unconscious of having done anything out of the ordinary course. But she got her money and offended nobody.

Easy to Believe.

An inspector was watching a gang of men clear the snow from a New York street. There were some dozen men, says the Evening Post, all working indifferently, getting in each other's way, or standing idle until the foreman "went" for them. One, however, was working in a different manner.

"That is Pat Connelley's cart," said the inspector. "and that is Pat." He pointed to a sturdy little Irishman, who buried and lifted a big shovel with the precision of a machine. When his cart was good and full, he received two tickets for it instead of one because it was a double load, hand packed. He drove briskly away, leaving other carts that had come up before him still waiting to be filled.

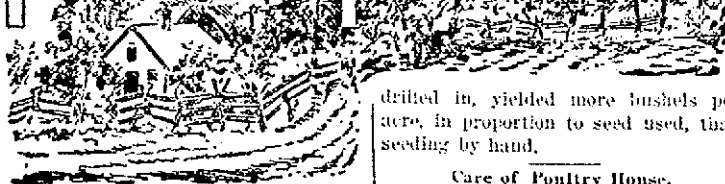

"That is Pat Connelley," repeated the inspector, thoughtfully. "He has been a day-laborer all his life, and yet he is worth a small fortune. To my knowledge he owns sixty thousand dollars' worth of property, free of debt."

FARMS AND FARMERS

Shade for Chickens.

There are thousands of chicks hatched late in the season that need protection from the sun's rays to enable them to make a proper growth during the summer. The coop illustrated may be used, or any coop of a plan best suited to the ideas of the poultry raiser; any of them may be protected by an arrangement such as shown. Whatever the form of the coop, the shed which is to furnish shade should be built on the slant shown, so that any rain which falls on it may be shed. To make this roof, a frame should be built of light lumber and the corner stakes driven firmly into the ground. The top may be covered with light cornstalks, hay, straw or burlap; in fact, with almost anything that will not draw heat, and which will be fairly weather-proof.

Shade for Late Chicks.

Such an arrangement as shown will be of great benefit to the chicks, for it will give them a cool and shady place after a run on the range. A number of these shades may be made at very small cost, so that there is no excuse for going without such a protection for the coops.

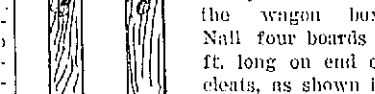

For the benefit of those who have corn to husk, I send a sketch of a platform I made to husk fodder on. I find it very simple and convenient. Take two 6-in. boards, c, e, 4 ft. long, for cleats. Space them so they will pass between the two center crosspieces under the wagon box. Nail four boards 2 ft. long on end of cleats, as shown in the cut. This makes the platform on which to lay fodder. Take a piece of hard wood, b, 3 in. wide and 1/2 in. thick, long enough to reach from one crosspiece to the other, bolt this to the under side of two center crosspieces of wagon box. This can be done by taking the nuts of the braces on side of wagon box, as shown in the Late Fodder Crops.

Late fodder crops include Kafir corn, millet, sorghum, rape, corn, the cereals and the clovers. One writer claims that where hogs are kept rape is the greatest of all those mentioned, as a half acre will feed forty hogs during the season if the crop gets a good start. Sorghum is looked upon as one of the very best crops for shocking and curing to be fed out during the winter. As this crop may be seeded after cereals have been harvested, there is still ample opportunity to prepare the soil and sow the seed. If the soil is plowed to a depth of three or four inches and afterwards well worked down with the harrow and cultivators such a seed bed will favor the production of several tons of cured sorghum per acre. One writer recommends Mammoth Early Orange as being the best sorghum for both fodder and seed purposes.—Iowa Homestead.

Nitrogen for Sweet Corn.

The New Jersey Experiment Station has been for three years testing different forms and amounts of nitrogenous fertilizer for sweet corn. The first group of plants had either nitrate of soda 150 pounds per acre, sulphate of ammonia 120 pounds per acre, or dried blood two hundred pounds per acre. Each was calculated to furnish the same amount of nitrogen. On a second group these amounts were multiplied by 1 2/3, and on a third group by 2 1/2. The three years test has shown an increase of 23.3 to 49.2 per cent. The yield was largest where the most nitrogen was applied. The returns for sulphate of ammonia for three years was $12.06, for dried blood, $9.95, and for nitrate of soda $9.60 per acre, and as the average cost of fertilizer was $1 per acre, they think it pays to supply the nitrogen. On cabbagees they found the best results from dried blood, about 270 pounds per acre, though 200 pounds of nitrate of soda was nearly equal in results. The average increased value of the crops was over $50 per acre. They seemed to act about alike in hastening the earliness of the crop.—New England Homestead.

Don't Sow Seed by Hand.

The sowing of seed by hand is not an economical method, as more seed is required than when a drill is used, and there is a larger return from the drill, owing to better covering of the seed and greater uniformity of depth. The drill has been improved to a high degree of efficiency, and some have fertilizer attachments. In all experiments made to determine the comparative value of the drill and hand seed, the drill has shown a decided superiority.

Motor Plow.

The Agricultural World of London, England, says that Dr. Gallig, inventor of the Gallig gun, has invented a plow to be operated by a gasoline motor. He claims that it can be run at a cost of $2 per day, so that it will do the work of thirty men and eighty horses. He proposes to make it a drifted in, yielded more bushels per acre, in proportion to seed used, than seeding by hand.

Care of Poultry House.

Nine out of ten poultry houses remain uncleaned during the summer, except for the removal of the droppings. If the houses are occupied, as a result the lice greatly increase in number, and are responsible for the slow growth made by many of the chickens during the summer.

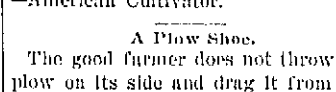

There is no reason why the houses should not be fumigated during the summer almost as regularly as during the winter, and the labor involved is really not so great. An abundance of whitewash and some carbolic acid will usually do all necessary to rid the houses of lice, provided it is applied so that all cracks and crevices are reached. Nest boxes should be removed and new ones substituted unless the old ones can be thoroughly cleaned. Roosts should come down so that the disinfectant may be placed in all the cracks; in short, the house should be thoroughly cleaned, and that several times during the summer.

Grain and Dairy Farming.

An important difference between dairy farming and grain farming is the amount of the farm that is sold with the product that is of the fertility of the farm. The man who sells a ton of wheat sells in it about $7 worth of fertilizing elements, and if he does not buy something to replace them his farm is so much poorer. The dairyman who sells a ton of butter has sold but fifty cents' worth of fertilizing material, and if he is a good dairyman, he has probably added much more than that, or twenty times that to the value of the farm in the manure, oil meal, cotton seed or other food that he purchased while feeding his cows for making that ton of butter. It is in this way that the dairyman's farm is continually growing more productive, and if he does not make much from his dairy, he should from the crops that he can grow on his much enriched soil.—American Cultivator.

A Plow Shoe.

The good farmer does not throw the plow on its side and drag it from one field to another. He will make a wooden runner, as shown in the cut, or he cuts away an old board or shoe, all but the sole and toe, for a runner. The good appearance of a line or roadway should not be spoiled by plover marks. It looks as if the farmer didn't care.

Death of Pansy Farrish.

Pansy Geneva Farrish, daughter of John Farrish of this city, died on Sunday, August 17th after an illness of several months, the cause of death being tuberculosis. Deceased was in her twentieth year, having been born on the 9th of October, 1882.

Miss Pansy was one of the bright young ladies of our city, beloved and mourned by all of her numerous friends in this city. She had lived her entire life in this city and was a graduate from our high school, being a member of the class of '01. Last autumn she went to Wausau to attend business college, it being one of her strongest desires to perfect her education, and while there she contracted a heavy cold which affected her lungs and from this she never recovered.

She came home to spend the Christmas holidays with her people, and when the time came for her to resume her studies she was unable to do so. Since that time she has been confined to her bed much of the time, and has gradually failed in spite of the best medical assistance that could be secured.

Some improvement was noticed in her condition during the past two weeks and her relatives had some hope of her recovery, but the cool weather that came on seemed to affect her seriously and in her weakened condition she was unable to resist the change and the end came on Sunday.

The funeral was held from the house this morning, the funeral services being conducted by the Rev. W. A. Peterson. Many floral tributes were received from those who had been her friends during life, and the pall bearers were made up from her class mates who had known her best during the happiest time of her existence.

Her brother Roy, who is located in Montana, was unable to attend the funeral, he having only received the notice of her death on the day of the funeral.

May Prove Disastrous.

As was anticipated by those who knew or had guessed at the inside workings of the republican machine in this county, when the name of Charles Lester was presented to the republican convention at Marshfield, there was a united effort to beat him out, and they were successful. In spite of the determined opposition of the leaders, he made a good showing and it is the opinion of his friends that had the convention been left to take its course he would have been nominated without trouble.

This may have been the case, and it may not. There were other good men before the convention ready to take the office, but of course they never stood a ghost of a show.

It is understood that one of the prominent men on the ticket circulated the report that he would withdraw from the contest if the Marshfield man was not nominated, and this had the desired effect of swinging them into line for the man from the north end of the county.

This is the kind of politics that the American people do not approve of and if the man from the north end is beaten this fall, as he undoubtedly will be, they have only themselves to thank for the blunder they have made.

The Drainage Case.

The famous drainage case that has occupied so much attention for some time past was settled on Thursday, by the jury finding for Conrad Meyer in the sum of $450. Mr. Meyer was the only one interested that the drainage company was not able to settle with without a suit. He had been assessed for construction purposes by the company, but wanted something like $800 damages.

Peter Hackney and A. F. Hackney were settled with out of court for the sum of $2,000. The Hackneys had been assessed for construction and benefits to the tune of $379, making a difference to them of $2,379. The town of Remington was assessed for $1,400, but this amount was reduced out of court to $650 and a settlement effected. August Seebrecht settled out of court for the sum of $25.

The settlement of these cases has made it so that work on the drainage canals can be commenced as soon as the projectors desire, and when the canals are completed it is figured that an immense tract of land will be opened for farming purposes.

Opinions as to the value of this land for farming purposes seem to differ. Some think that it will be of excellent quality, while others who claim to know from experience say it is of very little value. One man who has spent the greater part of his life in that section states that the land is of very little value when drained and cultivated. He says that his experience has been that about one crop of almost any kind seems to exhaust the soil, and that it is hard to get anything after the first year. However he admitted that it might be possible with the proper cultivation and fertilization to make productive farms out of the tracts.

Died.

The seven months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Whitrock of the town of Sigel died on Tuesday after an illness of only a few days of summer complaint. The funeral occurs tomorrow from the Lutheran church in Sigel, Rev. Baese officiating. This being the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Whitrock, they naturally feel their loss keenly, and they have the sympathy of their friends and neighbors in their affliction.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

Burt Williams of Ashland has been mentioned as candidate for lieutenant governor. Burt is mayor of Ashland and will be remembered as the young man who was elected president of the Wisconsin Municipal league at its meeting in this city last spring, and is a very able man. It might be a shame to sentence him to the oblivion of the office of lieutenant governor.

B. W. Brown brought suit against the La Crosse Mutual Aid association on Thursday for services claimed to have been rendered the company's agent while he was soliciting business a few weeks ago in this city. The suit was for $100 and was brought before Justice Getts, but an adjournment was asked until the third day of September, which was granted.

Stevens Point Journal: Geo. N. Wood of Grand Rapids was in the city on Friday on business. George is much pleased with the new Masonic Temple. This is his first visit to our city in three years.—Miss Capper of Philadelphia and Miss Herschleb of Grand Rapids, who were the guests of Mrs. S. Adams for several days, left Saturday for Grand Rapids.

—The Stevens Point Fair association which holds its third annual exhibition and race meet Aug. 26, 27 and 28, offers $5,000.00 in premiums and purses. This liberal sum is attracting the best strings of horses in the country and the most extensive exhibitors in this part of the state. Their fair this season will undoubtedly be the best ever held in central Wisconsin.

One of our citizens has suggested that the decorations that were placed on the library building last spring when the municipal league met here, be removed. However, this was only a suggestion on his part, and he does not want to be arbitrary about the matter if any one would like to have them remain there. It might be well to have the bunting taken down before snow comes.

Marshfield Times: On Tuesday Deputy Game Warden George W. Brown of Pittsfield, and Valentine Kaeth of Milwaukee, arrested Charles Regale for having in his possession a red deer skin which was taken as evidence that the animal had been killed out of season. The defendant was arraigned before Justice William Hirth where he pleaded guilty and was fined $25 and costs amounting to less than $30 as the warden remitted their fees. The hide was sold according to law to William Uthmiller.

—"The Convict's Daughter" one of the solid melodramatic successes of last season will be the attraction at the Grand Opera house, Tuesday Aug. 26th. The secret of the success of "The Convict's Daughter" is that it touches the heartstrings of its auditors. It is also filled with comedy of the higher order and does not depend upon buffoonery or vulgarity to amuse the public. It comes to us this year with entirely new scenery and altogether brighter and better than ever.

At the meeting of the grand lodge of Elks at Salt Lake City last week it was decided not to allow any more carnivals or street fairs to be held under the auspices of the Elk lodge. This rule takes effect after the 1st of January, 1903. This is probably a good thing for the order, as these street fairs and so-called carnivals seem to have degenerated into affairs that are anything but decorous; a place where the toughs that congregate are endowed with unlimited license to do whatever enters their head without any regard to decency.

—There was quite a stir on the streets the other day when the deputy game warden took our old townsman F. Beadle in custody. It appears that J. C. Iverson Co. of Milwaukee found out that they had been furnishing him picture moulding and he had made it into frames below cost and by so doing had injured their trade but when the game warden heard the result of the vote for the biggest liar in the city among the old soldiers, and found that out of 500 votes F. Beadle got 475, he released him. He said it was no use he would lie out of it any way. So he is still making frames, repairing furniture and wheels at his shop opposite the Hasbrouck livery barn two doors above Spafford, Cole & Co's store.

A new dynamo has been ordered for the electric light plant to replace one of the new machines recently installed. When the two new dynamos were recently put in place it was expected that one of the machines would be operated when necessary and that when the load became too heavy the other dynamo would be thrown into use, by the use of a clutch, operating both by the same engine and belt. This was found to be impractical, however, owing to the inability of getting the pulsations of the two machines to coincide without a great deal of trouble. As the company that installed the machines guaranteed them to work, it will have to stand the expense of making the change.

Stevens Point Gazette: John G. Docka has bought of the Andrew Lutz estate a one story house and two lots, located at 124 Algoma street, between Illinois and Wisconsin avenues. Mr. Docka purchased the property from Herman Wipperman of Grand Rapids, administrator of the Lutz estate. He bought it "dirt cheap," paying only $375, which is less than the bare lots are worth.—Henry Haerdel, the marble dealer of this city, has secured a contract for erecting a mausoleum in the Grand Rapids cemetery for Mrs. John Daly, of that city. It will be twenty feet in width, contain nine crypts, and constructed out of Bedford stone. John Daly, it will be remembered, was fatally injured in a runaway accident last winter.—Mrs. H. N. Woodworth has arrived home from an extended visit with her daughter, Mrs. A. N. Palmer, at Grand Rapids.—Mrs. Thos. Love of Grand Rapids is visiting at the home of her brother-in-law and other relatives in this city.

THE ADVENTIST MEETING.

Good Crowds and Enthusiastic Meetings Daily.

The Seventh Day Adventists opened their meetings in this city on Thursday evening last at 7:30, and since that time meetings for the public have been held three times a day, at 10:30, 2:30 and 7:30. At several of the evening meetings the attendance has been such that the large tent has been full, showing that there were about 1500 people present.

The attendance of Adventists has not been quite as large as had been expected, although crowds have been arriving daily, making it entirely probable that before the sessions are over the entire tent room will be taxed to its utmost.

The reports at the conference meetings indicate that the faith is flourishing in good shape in this state, there having been seventeen new churches established during the past year.

Reports show that this growth has not been confined to any one part of the state, but has been pretty general throughout. The members feel greatly encouraged over the outlook for their church as a great many of their members are very enthusiastic workers.

Among the elders present are some very interesting talkers, many of whom have devoted nearly their entire life to the work, and are consequently well fitted for their labors.

The Adventists will close their labors here Sunday next, after which there will be a general exodus for home.

A Hygienic Dinner.

In response to a number of invitations sent out by the committee of the Seventh Day Adventists, a large number of our citizens assembled at their grounds on Sunday afternoon to partake of a dinner served on the strictly vegetable plan.

For the uninitiated to attempt to subsist entirely on a vegetable diet would indeed prove a hardship, for the reason that there are many things prepared from the cereals that the average person has never heard of, and there are ways of preparing the common eatables that are entirely foreign to the person who has depended his lifetime on meat for the mainstay of his diet.

The Adventists, however, have reduced the preparation of cereals to a science, and a visit to their grocery fills one with wonder at the large number of preparations that are kept for sale there.

To take the place of cow's butter, they make a preparation from peanuts by grinding them up. This is called peanut butter and forms the basis for preparations requiring a fatty substance, such as lard or butter. While the butter thus produced does not taste like ordinary cow's butter, it contains an abundance of grease that no doubt serves all the requirements of the human system, and the Adventists claim that it is much more healthful than animal fat.

The expressions concerning the dinner served were somewhat varied. People who are not in the habit of consuming a great deal of meat expressed themselves as being greatly pleased with the service and seemed to be well satisfied with the meal, while there were others who are in the habit of consuming a great deal of meat who said that they felt as if they had not eaten anything.

Of course the living on a vegetable diet exclusively is an acquired art with mankind as he exists today, but that it is healthy and life-sustaining is evidenced by the condition of those who make a practice of partaking only of this sort of fare, for they are as robust and healthy as any class of people to be found anywhere.

Catarrah Cannot Be Cured

with local application, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrah is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrah Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrah Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrah. Send for testimonials free.

"The GAME KEEPER"

A beautiful and interesting Irish drama from the pen of Con T. Murphy will be produced at the Grand Opera House late in September.

Thos. S. Smith who is a recognized star of youth and talent is at the head of this production, and his managers, Messrs. Rowland and Clifford, have surrounded him with a company of unusual talent. "The Game Keeper" is a pretty story of the Emerald Isle presented with a wealth of gorgeous scenery and effects.

During the play, numerous specialties are introduced. Thos. J. Smith who is one of the greatest singers of today will introduce several new songs expressly written for this production. He is ably assisted in this feature by Sadie Marion, and a very clever child artist Baby Patti.

Manawa 4, Grand Rapids, 12.

The baseball boys went to Manawa Sunday and played a game with the boys over there and carried off the persimmons by a score of 12 to 4. Those who saw the game say it was a good one from start to finish even though the Manawa team was out-classed, and that the home boys had to play for what they got. Following are the names of the two teams:

Grand Rapids.	Manawa.
W. M. Petzold.....center	E. Lindow
N. Akey.....pitcher	A. Remington
Alex Bandelin.....short stop	Shm Walrath
A. Bandelin.....2nd base	Bill Bovee
Art Mulroy.....1st base	Geo. Bovee
E. Bassett.....center field	Guy Mallory
A. E. Weber.....left field	Ben Schweiger
H. Dillert.....right field	Jim Garry
John Mahoney.....3d base	Chas. Seaton
Geo. Melot, umpire.

The boys report that they received fine treatment at the hands of their hosts, and that the umpire was strictly on the square. The boys are now negotiating with Marshfield to try to get them down here for next Sunday.

"I have found Greene's Infallible Liniment to surpass anything of the kind I ever used."
Mart Buck, Charlotte, Mich.

"I know of no better liniment and would not be without it." W. L. Barkley, Lexington, Ky.

"I find it the best thing for lameness and sore tendons." John Geynor, Gretna, Ill.

"I find it an excellent remedy for sore necks and shoulders. It is the best liniment I ever used." E. G. Hoppes, State Center, Iowa.

"Its healing powers are wonderful. It does the work quickly when applied to galls, scratches, sores and open wounds." W. G. Newberry,
Chicago, Ill. Mrs. Caprell Horse Nail Co.

"I have used Greene's Infallible Liniment for a long time and would not think of treating a stable of horses without having it on hand. I recommend it to horsemen." W. L. Suow, Hornellsville, N.Y.

"My stable men inform me that they have for some time used Greene's Infallible Liniment on my horses in cases of sores, sprains, swellings, etc., and have found it very effective and satisfactory." Chas. H. Shack, Chicago, Ill.

"I cheerfully recommend it to all who keep horses." C. A. Smith, Auburn, N.Y.

"My barn foreman has used Greene's Infallible and finds it the best we have ever had in our stables." W. H. Raymond, Milwaukee, Wis.

"There is only one thing more convincing than the testimony of others, that is actual personal experience, then of yourself you know. Greene's Infallible Liniment will be found on trial to be the best external remedy, for either man or beast, that the market affords. It is an honest medicine made to sell on its merits and win such favor with all as to be adopted and kept constantly on hand."

"It is equally adapted for use in the household, the stable or the training quarters. Try it and you will feel that you have found a friend for yourself, your family and your horses. Many prudent mothers keep it on hand for the various hurts of childhood. It is without a rival for the treatment of sprains, strains, cuts, bruises, sores, open wounds, inflammation and swelling. Family sizes are 25 and 50 cents. A large size at $1.00 is prepared for stable use."

All the best druggists keep Greene's Infallible
Liniment or will get it for you if you ask them to.
Accept no substitute. There is no other liniment that will take its place and do its work, no other that is like it or "just as good."

M. A. Bogger expects soon to have another tenant in his store as he has been requested to reserve the building for a party who intends to open a furniture store there. The man has been on the road heretofore and thinks Grand Rapids is a good place to go into business.

Oscar Bandelin left on Saturday for Camp Douglas to visit his brother Carl, who is a member of the Third Regiment band. From there he goes to Madison for a short time, after which he goes to Iowa to play ball for the remainder of the season. Oscar intends to attend the state university again this winter.

—Money to loan. C. E. Boles.

A boy from Port Edwards sold a wheel to B. F. Haskins on Saturday for $3, and later it turned out that the wheel had been stolen. The owner of the wheel turned up and claimed his property. Mr. Haskins got his money back from the boy's father, who made the matter right when he heard of the deal.

Alfred Carlson had the misfortune to shoot himself in the foot on Monday. He was practicing with a 22 calibre rifle, and while the muzzle of the gun was resting on his foot he accidentally pulled the trigger, the ball lodging in his foot. No evil results are anticipated from the accident.

Jasper Crotteau returned Tuesday from his visit to Canada, where he had been for several weeks in the vicinity of St. Paul, his former home. It had been fifty years since Mr. Crotteau left Canada, and he had not been back since. John Jarvis, who went to Canada with Mr. Crotteau, is expected home in a few days.

HER ASSAILANT CAPTURED

Negro Who Assaulted Miss Zimmerman Gives Himself Up.

HE DENIES THE CHARGE.

Colored Man Makes Statement to Sheriff, Saying He Is Not Guilty of Any Crime.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—William Carter, the negro, who is accused of having assaulted Miss Zimmerman at her home near this city, was captured at 10 o'clock last night, three and a half miles from the scene of the assault. The colored man had been in hiding in the barn of Fred McChesney and when night came he attempted to make his escape. Edward and Andrew Bowers, two young men who were returning from Lodi in a buggy, saw Carter walking along the road and when they called to him the colored man started to run away. The young men assured him that they did not wish to injure him and Carter stopped and talked to them. He said he did not wish to run away and all that he wanted was a fair trial and not be mobbed by the citizens of the village.

Carter gave himself up. Carter then voluntarily accompanied the young men to the home of Arthur Boyce. Sheriff Burmeister was then telephoned for and when he arrived he was handcuffed and he then accompanied the officer to this city, arriving shortly after 3 o'clock this morning.

When brought to the jail Carter had the following statement to offer of the affair: "This was no case of criminal assault, mister," said Carter in the station at Lodi. "It was just like this: I was acquainted with the lady and was called into the house and she had a bottle of whiskey, and we were together when the neighbors came in and made a holler."

"I'll plead guilty I'll plead guilty to a lie, but that will be the best way, for if I don't plead guilty the people would turn against me and make it worse for me."

"I'll tell it to the judge just as I am telling it to you, mister, and let him do as he pleases."

"I was scared. Certainly that was why I kept lying, that's why I'm going to plead guilty and you see the lady didn't exactly bright, and while she wouldn't say anything against me there isn't no telling what others would say and I wouldn't have no chance against the neighbors and so I'll take the easiest way out of it."

Governor was Active. Considerable excitement was caused here by the reported assault and when Gay, La Follette noticed the feelings of the people he called upon the sheriff and asked the latter to keep him informed of the case. He also sent several messages to prominent residents in the vicinity of the trouble and asked them to preserve the law at all hazards and not lynch the colored man in case he was captured.

The negro freely admits his act, but says he did not use force. He is ready to plead guilty to almost anything and take his punishment.

Riot at Wild West Show. By flourishing a gun and threatening a crowd at a Wild West show which was held here last evening, Joe Shaw caused a riot in which several hundred persons participated and which resulted in Shaw's being so badly beaten that he was taken to the hospital.

The riot was caused by the fact that Shaw had forced his way through the crowd in order to prevent the people from killing Shaw. The latter is a colored man and the Carter trouble had incensed the people against all colored persons.

The trouble arose because of the desire of a number of people to get into the tent without paying to see the show. A railroad track ran alongside of the show grounds and many persons climbed the box cars and watched the performance. This the showmen objected to, but when Shaw came out with a gun the crowd immediately set upon him and beat him considerably. The melee on the outside caused a stampede of those in the enclosure and the crowd came rushing out.

The show ended in a riot, as the people had all left the grounds by the time the trouble had been settled.

WAS ROUGHLY HANDLED.

Postoffice Inspector Runs Up Against Dick Kemp, a Wisconsin University Football Player.

La Crosse, Wis., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—D. D. Nebbett of Washington, D. C., who represented himself to be a post-office inspector, but who it is thought is a traveling man, is at the point of death as the result of an encounter with Rick Kemp, the University of Wisconsin football player, who also trained with the University of Chicago team for some time.

Kemp's home is at Dressbach, Minn., where his father is postmaster. The stories as to just how the affair started are conflicting, but it appears that Nebbett came to the postoffice and asked Kemp to take care of his grips, which he refused to do. Nebbett explained that he was a post-office inspector and insisted upon it, but was still refused. Later he came back again and Kemp ordered him out. The father was upstairs and Kemp called to him and he came down and attempted to put Nebbett out. He was not successful and young Kemp took a hand, and so beat and bruised Nebbett that he has since been in the hospital and the physicians say he is in a critical condition.

Feeling runs high against Kemp, whose bragged ways have led him into dispute in the village, and the citizens threaten to lynch him. Kemp came to La Crosse last night and says if a warrant is issued he will go without extradition.

TAP LEAD AND ZINC MINES

North-Western Road to Build Spur to Touch Mines in Southern Part of the State.

Darlington, Wis., Aug. 16.—It is reported on good authority that the North-Western Railway Company is planning to build a spur connecting with the lead and zinc mines between Ramoth Station and Hazel Green, in the southwestern part of the state. The branch will leave the main road in Jo Daviess county, Ill., a quarter of a mile south of the state line, and will run along the banks of the Pever river to the south of the Hull branch to the vicinity of the Millside, where millions of pounds of lead ore have been taken. The new line has been surveyed and the right of way has been secured by the company. The Kennedy Mining Company is mining ore and formerly owned by Bell brothers of this city and they are preparing about

ANNUAL ASSEMBLY AT BATTLE ISLAND.

Event is Held to Commemorate the Ending of the Black Hawk Indian War.

La Crosse, Wis., Aug. 16.—The annual Battle Island Assembly which is held every year in commemoration of the close of the famous Black Hawk war, was commenced this morning on Battle Island, the historic battle ground of the final battle of this war, near Victory, Wis., a few miles below here. The grounds were crowded with visitors. The celebration opened with an address by Rev. J. S. McDonald. This afternoon the feature of the programme was an address on "Agriculture in Public Schools" by Mrs. Ida Tilson.

MANITOWOC IS WITHOUT PLUMBING INSPECTOR.

Judge Schenian Decides Council Cannot Elect—Board of Public Works Has Power of Appointment.

Manitowoc, Wis., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—Judge A. P. Schenian of the municipal court has handed down a decision in the case of the state of Wisconsin against Albert Worrel, a plumber, who was charged with practicing plumbing without a license. The decision discharges the defendant and holds that there was no sufficient foundation laid for a criminal prosecution. The effect of the decision is that this city has no plumbing inspector and only a part of a board of inspectors. The evidence showed that Inspector Houghton was first elected by the common council, which body had no right to make the appointment, it being the duty of the board of public works.

WAS A MARRIED MAN.

John Bishop of Somers, Wis., Who was Drowned in Indiana, Had Wife and Two Children.

Kenosha, Wis., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—John Bishop, who was drowned near Mishawaka, Ind., on Thursday afternoon, was not dead riding with his intended wife, Elva Parker, to whom he was to have been married on Sunday, was a married man.

He has a wife and two children living at Somers, a small village near here, and considerable surprise was occasioned here by the report that he was to have been married at Mishawaka, Ind., on Sunday. The drowned man was a son of Isaac P. Bishop, formerly assemblyman from this district and for many years chairman of the county board. Young Bishop was employed as a teamster on the Milwaukee road and left his wife and children only a short time ago. His father and also his wife thought he had gone back to work.

Bishop was drowned while giving an exhibition of fancy swimming. He was an expert swimmer and his drowning surprised his friends who knew of his ability in this line. Del Bishop and his father left yesterday for Mishawaka to bring back the body of the young man. Internment will take place at Somers.

BOYS ROB THE MAILS.

Confession of Karl Schwanz of Portage Implicates Other Young Lads of that City.

Portage, Wis., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—It is said that the confession of Karl Schwanz, the 14-year-old lad who was arrested yesterday afternoon by Deputy United States Marshal French and taken to Madison, implicates several other boys in this city. The names of those accused, however, will not be divulged by the authorities until a thorough investigation is made. The matter is now in the hands of United States Attorney Sheldon. The thefts for which young Schwanz is now in custody were committed during May and June of the present year. He was detected in the act by some of the post-office employees, after a number of complaints had been entered with the postmaster stating that letters containing remittances had not been received. It is said that access to the lock-boxes in most cases was possible because business men were careless about closing and locking boxes after taking mail therefrom. The sums taken were not large—mostly stamps and small change. Several money orders for larger sums were taken, but were not presented for payment. Among the firms who suffered losses were Purdy Drug Company, Portage Hosiery Company, W. H. Gilmer, P. E. Winke, Breese, Loomis & Co. and Dr. Legge.

GRAIN CROP IS LARGE.

Yield in the Vicinity of Kaukauna is the Biggest Known in Many Years.

Kaukauna, Wis., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—Farmers in this locality cannot be induced to say much about the big crops being harvested here. They seem to fear that such assertions will tend to lower prices of their products. The facts are that in this particular locality that the most amazing crops ever grown here are either just coming to maturity or being harvested. Secretary True has placed the average on wheat, oats, barley, potatoes and beans at 100 per cent. throughout the state, but very many instances can be shown in this vicinity of much larger yields, and the quality is away above the average, too. It is simply amazing to see such yields. Oats over 100 bushels to the acre and weighing 29 per cent. more than they measure, is some of the recorded yields. Potatoes as high as 300 bushels per acre, and even more. Nicholas Blum, at the Kaukauna elevator, purchased new oats yesterday at 30 cents per bushel which weighed 60 pounds from a lot which measured only 700 bushels from the machine. barley is an immense yield, but its quality is No. 3 on account of the excessive rains which has colored the berry.

MAN LOSES HIS FOOT.

John Kukraw was Seriously Injured by Being Caught in Conveyor at Malt House.

Manitowoc, Wis., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—John Kukraw, aged 25 years, who was employed at the Manitowoc Malt Company's plant, was seriously injured yesterday afternoon, by having his right foot torn off. He was at work on the first floor of the elevator when he slipped, his foot being caught in the conveyor. The foot was completely torn off up to the heel which remained. The young man saved himself from sure death by clinging to a support above the conveyor. He was taken to the hospital soon after the accident and it was found that amputation of the right foot was necessary.

FATHER SHOT DAUGHTER

Miss Ullman was Fired Upon from Ambush by Parent.

SHIELDED HER FATHER

Mr. Ullman Made Complete Confession When Confronted by Officers Working on the Case.

Jewman, Wis., Aug. 13.—[Special.]—The mystery connected with the shooting from ambush of Miss Ida Ullman a week ago last Sunday was cleared up yesterday, when Albert Ullman, the girl's father, confessed to the shooting. The father was arrested soon after making the confession and was locked up in the jail at this place.

Father Confesses Guilt.

Sheriff Solon and Deputy Sheriff Peters of this county and Deputy Hildebrand of Waukesha, who have been working on the case for over a week, finally traced the crime down to the father of the young woman. He at first refused to admit the shooting, but after being confronted with all the evidence he finally broke down and confessed his guilt.

The girl after being shot by her parent lay in a secluded spot near the roadside for an entire day and the unattended wound almost caused her death.

Shields Her Parent.

She knew who had done the shooting, but she never said a word about it to the authorities, as she wished to shield her father. Ullman is 64 years of age and is a wealthy farmer. His wife has been dead for some time and he lives at home with a family of ten children. Ullman claims that he has had trouble with his daughter and that she took $350 from him in March and he said he would go into the woods to get her, but that the gun exploded accidentally, wounding his daughter. He was talking to her at the time and she knew who had done the shooting.

Tried to Cover His Crime. The investigation of the officers disclosed the fact that he was lying, although he made an attempt to have it appear that he was in Milwaukee by driving to Oconomowoc and taking the train to that city. He returned to Jewman on the midnight train and walked from there to this spot where he attempted to commit the crime.

After he had supposed he had killed his daughter he walked back to Oconomowoc and returned home with his team, thereby making it appear that he was at Milwaukee all the time. On the way Ullman was met by Frank Gunderson, a neighbor, who talked with him, and this helped to disprove his attempt at an alibi.

Held for Trial.

The confession of Ullman caused great excitement and indignation in the vicinity of his home. He was brought here last evening by Sheriff Solon and Deputy Peters and taken before Justice Clifford. District Attorney Lunek appeared for the state and Attorney Maier appeared for the defendant. Ullman waived the preliminary hearing and was held under $10,000 bonds. Ullman, it is said, has always treated his daughter inhumanly and whenever possible she would work for the neighbors. When advised to get a detective to assist in arresting the guilty person Ullman told the authorities to take the nurse out of his house which they had employed to care for his daughter. Albert Ullman this morning furnished the $10,000 bail and was liberated. His bondsmen are John and Edward LaBaur of this place.

RUN SATURDAY NIGHT.

Seven of the Paper Mills in the Fox River Valley Operated in All or in Part.

Menasha, Wis., Aug. 13.—[Special.]—Paper mills in the Fox river valley now being operated either all or in part on Saturday nights are the Menasha Paper Company, Menasha; Tigra mill, Appleton; Vulcan mill, Appleton; Atlas mill, Appleton; Patten Paper Company, Appleton; Combined Locks Paper Company, Kaukauna. Within two weeks five paper mills in Fox river valley have been operating either in part or all at Saturday nights, most of the employees being union men, in contravention of the declaration of principles for which the recent strike was ordered.

The last to revert either in whole or in part to the old time schedule are the Thimpany and Combined Locks mills. These, with the Kimberley and Clark mills at Appleton, and the Menasha Paper Company and the Patten Paper Company, which opposed the union in the strike, make seven mills working Saturday nights. According to the terms of the agreement made between the paper mills companies and the union before the strike it is stated, those mills which hesitatingly granted the short-hour schedule did so with the understanding that the union would within a given time exert its utmost influence and bring all the competing mills into the same agreement. The time for this expired over a month ago. With seven mills here operating on Saturday nights, in view of the extreme close trade competition between the short and long hour schedule plants, the general query here now is what will the union do?

The C. W. Howard Company of Menasha was reported this morning to have requested the union to allow its operators to work Saturday nights. The report, however, was denied at the office. At Appleton it is said union men have applied at the Patten mill for work on the long-hour schedule. Both John M. Naughton, president of the Patten Paper Company, and Supt. Ballou of the Menasha Paper Company say they have no difficulty in securing nonunion operators. Vigorous action on the part of the union is expected in an endeavor to save from defeat the object attained by the recent strike.

INCREASE IN RAILROAD TAXES.

Semi-Annual Payment Shows that Companies are Paying More.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 13.—At the opening of business yesterday there was $1,075,148 in the treasury of the state treasury, against $767,972.58 at the same time last year. The increase is principally due to the increase in taxes on railroads. The taxes of these corporations are based on their earnings, the big companies, like the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, the Chicago & North-Western, Wisconsin Central and others of the same class, pay 4 per cent. on their gross earnings. As the earnings of these roads increase their state taxes increase. The roads pay their taxes in semi-annual installments, the first half on or before February 10 and the second on or before August 10. All of the ordinary and extraordinary expenses of the state come out of the general fund.

DARWIN GLIDDEN IS DEAD

One of the Early Pioneers of Janesville Succumbs at Old Age—Veteran of War.

Janesville, Wis., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Darwin H. Glidden died at his home in this city Wednesday evening at 9 o'clock from the effects of a cancer. He was 67 years of age.

Mr. Glidden was born in Orleans county, N. Y., June 11, 1825. When only 5 years old he came to Wisconsin, settling in Kenosha county. Eight years later the family removed to Dane county, near Oregon, where the parents died. He was of a family of nine children; two brothers died while in service in the War of the Rebellion. Darwin enlisted in the same company and regiment, Co. B of the Eleventh Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry, and was wounded at the battle of Vicksburg, May 22, 1863. On his recovery he was transferred to the veteran corps and served until September, 1864. He then went to Clermont, Ind., and engaged for one year in general mercantile business. In 1865 he removed to Brooklyn, Wis., and died in 1891 for eight years. He also built the Brooklyn hotel and ran the same until 1879. He then purchased a large farm west of Brooklyn and lived there until he removed to this city in 1891. The funeral was held today.

BOY BURGLARS WHIPPED.

Judge Haily of West Superior Inflicts This Punishment Upon Self-Confessed Thieves.

West Superior, Wis., Aug. 15.—Twenty-one lashes across the back with a rawhide. This was the severe punishment meted out to two self-confessed juvenile burglars by the orders of Judge Haily of the municipal court today. The boys are Robert and John Scott, 13-year-old twins, who, with a companion of the same age, are charged with having broken into ten or more houses during the summer and stealing money from small sums up to $20, besides taking silverware and other valuables. The other offender has left home and the police of other cities have been notified to look for him. Rather than have them sent to the reform school the mother consented to have them whipped. The janitor of the court executed the court's order. President Riches of the police commission said he would prefer charges against any policeman who followed out such orders of the court. The boys are sons of the late John Scott, former mayor.

BOY WOUNDS THREE.

Accidental Discharge of Shotgun Held by Small Boy Results in Serious Injuries.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—By the accidental discharge of a shotgun in the hands of a small boy who didn't know it was loaded, three men in the town of Lafayette were wounded. They are John Connell, George Gannon and Allan Boyd and all are now in the hospital in this city. The men were engaged in shooting pigeons and handed the gun to the boy to hold. He became careless and in some way the gun was discharged. Connell received part of the charge in the face and breast, Gannon was shot in the left arm and side and a hole was torn in Boyd's leg. The men had just shot the last hog with buckshot and reloaded the gun with finer shot to shoot chickens. Owing to the fine quality of the shot the wounds are not considered serious.

CAMP CLEGHORN WELL ATTENDED.

Company Has Installed Considerable Improvements in Water System.

Waunakee, Wis., Aug. 15.—In spite of the cold, damp weather, the attendance at Camp Cleghorn is good, a large number of new arrivals being reported for the day. At the annual meeting of stockholders fifteen directors were elected. The reports of the officers showed the assembly to be in a most prosperous condition. The new land purchased last year has been plotted and a system of waterworks has been installed.

WILL CELEBRATE LABOR DAY.

Chippewa Falls Unions are Planning on Big Parade.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—The Cigar makers' and Longshoremen's local unions are arranging to celebrate Labor Day. They have engaged prominent speakers. A parade of unions will take place in the forenoon, picnic in the afternoon and the day will be closed with a grand ball in the evening. Mayor McCall will issue a proclamation to close all business places on that day.

CASE NOT IN TRUST.

Officers of Racine Works Deny Report Sent Out.

Racine, Wis., Aug. 15.—Officers of the J. L. Case T. M. Company emphatically stated that no trust was after the plant and that it was not for sale. The five Englishmen who came here to go through the factory openly state that they are simply touring the United States and inspecting various industries for information. All are civil engineers and hold positions in Great Britain.

FOUND DEAD IN JAIL.

Byron L. David, Formerly of Racine, a Victim of Delirium Tremens.

Racine, Wis., Aug. 15.—A telephone message from Waukesha states that Byron L. David was found dead in the county jail, a victim of delirium tremens. He was formerly employed as chemist in Chicago packing houses and was a son of the late Samuel David, a pioneer resident of Racine.

OBITUARY MENTION.

William H. Rice, Horicon. Horicon, Wis., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—William H. Rice, the oldest resident of this place, died from heart failure here yesterday. He was stricken on the street and died shortly after being taken to a nearby hotel. He was 75 years of age and had resided here for over sixty years. His only living relative is A. T. Rice of Council Bluffs, Ia.

Joseph Falter, Eagle. Eagle, Wis., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Joseph Falter, Sr., died last night, aged 80 years. The funeral will be held Sunday.

Sewer Diggers Lose Strike. Appleton, Wis., Aug. 15.—Sewer diggers employed by J. H. Green & Sons struck yesterday for an increase in wages of 25 cents. Their employers proceeded to fill their places. Some of them returned to work. The leaders of the strike were not taken back.

Racine Contractor Dead. Racine, Wis., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Michael Zierbe, local contractor, was a leading contractor of this city, died of consumption. He served in the city council two terms.

BRIDEGROOM IS DROWNED

SOMERS (WIS.) MAN MEETS DEATH ON EVE OF WEDDING.

The Affaired Wife of John Bishop With- nesses Sad Accident at Mishawaka, Ind.

Mishawaka, Ind., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—John Bishop, a young man who came here from Somers, Wis., to marry Miss Alpha Parker, was drowned here last night in view of his sweetheart and other members of a jolly boating party. The couple were to have been married Sunday. Bishop lost his life in giving an exhibition of expert swimming. W. J. Fuller, who attempted his rescue, was with difficulty saved. It is thought that Bishop was seized with cramps while in the water and he was rendered helpless. He was an expert swimmer.

Racine, Wis., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—John Bishop of Somers, who was drowned in Indiana yesterday, was well known here. He was the son of Ira T. Bishop, one of the leading farmers near Summit. Mr. Bishop senior is one of the prominent politicians of the southern portion of the state and for many years has been chairman of the county board. Del Bishop, a brother of the drowned man, has an interest in the West Side laundry of this city. He left for the scene of the drowning today to bring back the body of his dead brother.

ADVENTISTS IN CAMP AT GRAND RAPIDS.

The Annual Camp Meeting Opens on Saturday and will Continue for Two Weeks.

Grand Rapids, Wis., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—The annual camp meeting of the Seventh Day Adventists of the state of Wisconsin is now in session in this city with about 1000 campers on the grounds. A large assembly tent capable of seating about 1500 people is located in the center and fully 200 small tents are already erected for the accommodation of those desiring to live on the grounds. Two large tents in which the German and Scandinavian languages will be preached are located at convenient points. The meeting will be in session for the next two weeks and many of the most prominent teachers, preachers and lecturers of this faith in the United States will be present. Every train is unloading campers from all points of the state.

ANNUAL PILGRIMAGE.

Sick, Halt and Blind Go to Robinsonville to be Cured of Their Ills.

Green Bay, Wis., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—At daylight this morning hundreds of people left this city for Robinsonville, about twenty-two miles from here, to visit the chapel, where the 15th of August is annually celebrated. It is the Mecca of thousands from the northern part of the state who have injuries or who are crippled, many having been cured through prayer at the chapel.

BRILLIANT MADISON WEDDING.

An Old Resebush.

In the town of Hildersheim, in Germany, is a resobush said to be 1000 years old, and sprouts from its branches have realized fabulous sums. Some years ago a rich Englishman offered $50,000 for the entire tree, but the sum was indignantly refused. This wonderful plant grows under thickly grown moss against the side of the famous old Church of St. Michael. It is claimed that it has bloomed perennially since the days of King Alfred, and this statement has never been disputed, for its record has been as carefully kept as the pedigree of the bluest blooded family in the kingdom. It is supposed to have been discovered through the medium of King Louis of Hildersheim as far back as 1022.

Couldn't Live Without Them.

New York City, Aug. 18th.—Mr. Charles Back, of 61 Rue de la Victorie, Paris, France, relates a most interesting experience:

"Ever since I was about three years of age I have suffered severely with Kidney Disease."

"Last year I spent some time at the baths at Carlsbad (Bohemia), but I came back after five weeks' treatment with a severe pain still in my kidneys."

"My doctors in Paris and Hamburg could do nothing for me."

"I was obliged to start from Paris to Montreal, Canada, and when I arrived in the Canadian city I was half dead."

"I read an advertisement of Dodd's Kidney Pills in a newspaper there and began to use this remedy, and after two days' treatment I felt that my pains were leaving me, and in a week I had no pains at all."

"Dodd's Kidney Pills are the most wonderful remedy in the world. I keep them always with me for I believe I could not live without them."

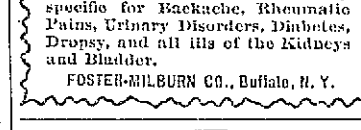

—Ordinary lima beans, someone has said, are good to allay thirst.

AN IOWA MAN

Mr. E. Sayre, official government and meteorological reporter, residing at Ogden, Iowa, was a very sick man from his kidneys. Mr. Sayre was prostrated in the summer of 1898, and almost despaired, as all endeavors to check the trouble proved of no avail; just at the danger point of kidney trouble he found a remedy that cured him. It was in a little wooden box and

PITTSVILLE.

(From the Pilot.)

Oscar Otfellie, of the firm of Otfellie & Stoddard Land Co., received a telegram from F. W. Ring, Thursday, to come to Tampa, Florida, where Mr. Ring is looking over a business proposition of considerable magnitude. T. W. Pitts, formerly of Pittsville, is the party who is locating them and they may acquire 8,000 acres of timber lands, only eight miles from the city of Tampa, a city of 45,000 people. The land is located on the two railway lines that enter that city and one corner of the land is on tide water. The county is building a $40,000.00 shell road through the tract and a street car line is now running cars within three miles of it. Cleared land adjoining this tract is now renting for $50 per acre annually. Mr. Pitts, whom every lumberman of any reputation around here knows, is an expert timber estimator. He estimates the tract to cut 16 million and up of lumber besides an immense amount of wood which sells at $4.00 per cord in Tampa.

Rehearsals are now taking place for Queen Esther to be put on at King's opera house in the next few weeks. It is expected that about 60 people will take part in this play.

A YOUNG LADY'S LIFE SAVED

At Panama, Colombia, by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

—Dr. Chas. H. Utter, a prominent physician of Panama, Colombia, in a recent letter states: "Last March I had as a patient a young lady sixteen years of age who had a very bad attack of dysentery. Everything I prescribed for her proved ineffectual and she was growing worse every hour. Her parents were sure she would die. She had become so weak that she could not turn over in bed. What to do at this critical moment was a study for me, but I thought of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and as a last resort prescribed it. The most wonderful result was effected. Within eight hours she was feeling much better; inside of three days she was upon her feet and at the end of one week was entirely well." For sale by Johnson & Hill Co. & Wood County Drug Co.

BERRY MEN MEET.

LARGE CROWD IN ATTENDANCE.

Many People Partake of Refreshments and Listen to a Good Program.

The annual summer session of the Wisconsin State Cranberry Growers' association that occurred at the experimental station on the Gaynor-Blackstone marsh on Tuesday was one of the largest meetings of the kind that has ever been held.

The crowd began to gather early, so by the time dinner was announced there were plenty to fill the tables and enough to spare for another round. The crowd seemed to be a particularly happy one and everybody was in good nature, so that a most enjoyable time was had.

To attempt to describe in words the quality of the dinner furnished by the ladies would only prove a slander, as it was simply beyond description. Some have remarked that there were certain ones who only seemed to go to these meetings on account of the dinner served, and have sneered at them for doing so, but they are justified in doing it and it only speaks for the quality of the dinner. Why, men went into the dining room looking like sand hill cranes and came out waddling like ducks. There were enough present to fill the tables twice, and as about 125 sat down each time, it is safe to say that there were 250 people present. Mrs. Potter and Mrs. Searls, who engineered this part of the program, and their corps of assistants are entitled to a great deal of credit.

After dinner was over the visitors wandered about the grounds, inspecting the experimental station and nursery and visiting among themselves or with their marsh friends. Then, while everybody was in good nature, Photographer Neazel lined the crowd up and had them look pleasant while he took their picture. This diversion over, the business of the meeting was started, as it was already getting late.

The meeting was called to order by President Brierie, who, on account of the lateness of the hour, only spoke a few words. Secretary Fitch then made his report, opening it in his usual happy style, and putting the crowd in even better nature than before, if such a thing were possible. According to his figures as gleaned from reports and estimations furnished him from all over the country, the crop this year in the United States will equal about 295,000 barrels, against 400,000 last year. While it is estimated that the Wisconsin crop will exceed that of last year by about 25 per cent, the crops in the east will not be so large, cutting down the total by about 100,000 barrels. It was also estimated that this shortage would probably raise the price from 25 cents to 75 cents per barrel.

A. C. Bennett, who had a paper on "The Planting of Vines," was not present, but he had sent his paper and it was short and to the point. He stated that every man should plant his vines as he thought best, and then if he did not profit by his mistakes, his neighbors would, and that in the course of time he would learn how not to plant them.

Judge John A. Gaynor then read a paper on the Canadian fruit law. He told of the restrictions and requirements of fruit growers made in Canada, and expressed it as his opinion that the enactment of similar laws in this state would prove beneficial to the cranberry growers. Some of the requirements that he thought should be incorporated in a law were: That every grower should be required to brand each barrel with his name and address. That the barrels should be branded with the quality of the fruit, to be designated as Pie Berries, Standard, Fancy, or Crop Run. That pie berries should be those that would pass through a 3/4-inch screen; standard, those that would not go through a 3/4-inch screen but would pass through a 3/8-inch screen; fancy, those that would pass over a 3/8-inch screen. The crop run should be the berries as they come from the vines with the pie berries taken out. That sound berries should not have more than 5 out of 100 rotten ones in them, and that the standard brand should not have more than 4 per cent of pie berries in them. Also that the berries, when packed, should not become shaky inside of thirty days if properly handled.

As these recommendations were unanimously approved by the members present it was moved and carried that a committee be appointed to draft a law incorporating these requirements, same to be presented to the next legislature for passage. The president appointed as such committee Messrs. J. A. Gaynor, A. E. Bennett and S. N. Whitley.

Mr. Chacey, who represented Paycke Brothers, was then called on for an address, and he gave a good talk on the subject of cranberries. He stated that he had in the past had very good luck with Wisconsin cranberries from the fact that as a general thing they were packed fairly well and were excellent keepers. He emphasized the matter of good packing and explained how his company could pay a better price for berries that were packed well and sorted and marked conscientiously. He also stated that from reports received by his company, they had estimated that the crop this year would just about equal that of last, as the extra production in Wisconsin would just about equal the shortage in the eastern states. His company estimates the crop in Wisconsin to be about 55,000 barrels.

Prof. A. R. Whitson of the department of agriculture, university of Wisconsin, then gave a short talk.

Mr. Whitson stated that he was not present to impart information, but had come to learn something of the methods of irrigation as used in cranberry culture, and intended to make a stay of several days. Later the matter was to be investigated in the university and any information gleaned would be for the use of the public in the future.

The price set for pickers the ensuing year was 45 cents per bushel, with a bonus of 5 cents per bushel for those that remain the entire season.

The matter of establishing a cranberry journal was discussed and although no action was taken toward the establishment of such a paper, resolutions were passed endorsing such action and favoring the project.

It was the consensus of opinion among growers that picking would commence this year on or about September 5th.

FROM THE PHILIPPINES.

A Splendid Collection of Relics From The Orient.

George R. Houston and E. J. Galyean of Grand Rapids, are in the city, guests of Dr. Russ Lyon. Mr. Galyean will return tonight and Mr. Houston will remain over tomorrow. Each of the gentlemen has served in the regular army. Mr. Houston put in twenty-five months in the Philippines, being a member of the Eighteenth Infantry band. He is now out of service. Mr. Galyean has served six years, and is now under his third enlistment, being home on a four month furlough. He saw service in Cuba and was at San Juan hill. He then went to the Philippines and he and Mr. Houston were comrades. The journey each way was by the Pacific route, and in going out they visited Honolulu.

While in the orient Mr. Houston wisely gathered a considerable store of relics and curiosities and these he has with him. Today they are at the office of Dr. Lyon where a few friends were permitted to view them, but tomorrow they will be on exhibition in the show window at Gus. Naffz' drug store. The collection, which includes articles from China and the Philippines, is one of the best that has come from that country and a full list would be too long for this article. Among them, however, is one of the urns in which the ashes of the dead are placed after cremation. It is made from dark colored rock from the Dead Sea, having Spanish and Arabian inscriptions. There is also a spade in a sheath taken from a dead Boxer, such as they all carried. The collection of bows, daggers and knives includes about twenty different kinds, many of them dangerous looking weapons, but of little use in modern warfare. The bows and poisoned arrows of the original Philippines, a tribe which now inhabits the mountains and was not concerned in the revolution, are toy affairs, but capable of doing much execution in the hands of those accustomed to their use. There are also quaint musical instruments, primitive tools, spoons and other articles made of cocoanuts and bamboo, woven native hats, cigars and cigarettes to the use of which almost all the natives are addicted, and other interesting things too numerous to mention. Mr. Houston's "mascot," is a skull that has been christened "Carrie Nation," and "Carrie" is prevented from being lonesome by having the constant companionship of two other skulls and a few other human bones. "Carrie" is covered with inscriptions and dates of the important events of Mr. Houston's term of service and bears the index to enough information and incidents to provide material for a history of the campaign in which her owner participated.

Lovers of the curious and students of matters that pertain to the Philippines will find the display one of much interest.—Vausau Record.

Gun Club Scores.

The members of the gun club got out Sunday and held three events. The attendance was not large, but the scores made were fairly good. Following are the scores:

First event, 25 birds: G. W. Mason, 19; L. M. Nash, 17; W. J. Conway, 15; W. G. Scott, 14; W. S. Gardner, 15; W. A. Drumb, 22; S. Church, 16.

Second event, 25 birds: G. W. Mason, 17; L. M. Nash, 22; W. G. Scott, 19; W. S. Gardner, 7; W. A. Drumb, 25.

Third event, 25 birds: G. W. Mason, 21; L. M. Nash, 14; W. G. Scott, 24; W. A. Drumb, 21.

It is probable that the club will not hold more than one more shoot this season owing to the proximity of the hunting season, as those who have the time will put their energies to live bird shooting.

It is possible that next year the gun club will erect a club house near the city and do their shooting on week days instead of Sunday, which will make it more agreeable for all concerned and probably be an inducement to parties to join the club and participate in the shoots who have religious scruples against shooting on Sunday.

Helen Burns.

Helen, the three year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Burns, died in this city on Friday night from the effects of an attack of scarlet fever. The little girl had got through the disease all right and her recovery was considered only a matter of a short time when other complications set in and death resulted. Mrs. Burns and her little daughter had been visiting friends here when the little girl was stricken with the disease, their home being at Iola, where Mr. Burns is employed as an engineer.

THE BALL STARTED.

REPUBLICANS NAME OFFICERS.

Things Will Go About as Fixed by the Machine with Just a Few Surprises For All.

The republican convention to nominate officers for Wood county met in Marshfield on Monday evening.

With a very few exceptions all of the townships of the county were represented. The meeting was called to order by H. Wiperman. C. S. Vedder of Marshfield was elected chairman of the meeting, and Geo. Reynolds of the same place clerk. Geo. Brown, A. E. Bennett and T. A. Taylor were appointed as tellers.

A committee on resolutions was then appointed consisting of J. E. Ingraham, Ed. Dumas, Emory Ayers, E. C. Ketchum and Wm. Hooper. A recess of twenty minutes was then taken to allow the committee to perform its labors.

When the meeting was again called to order the committee submitted a set of resolutions endorsing Senator Spooner and his efficient work done for the state in the capacity of a United States senator, which were unanimously adopted by the convention.

The matter of nominating a county ticket was then taken up, the first being that of assemblyman. J. C. Davis of Richfield then made a speech nominating Frank A. Cady of Grand Rapids. The nomination was made unanimous.

Wm. Hooper of Nekoosa then made a motion to the effect that E. A. Upham be nominated for register of deeds, E. S. Renne for county clerk, Jacob Searles for county treasurer, and C. A. Podawiltz for clerk of court, and that the clerk be instructed to cast a unanimous ballot for same. The motion was carried, and these gentlemen declared to be the nominees of the convention.

The matter of sheriff was then taken up. This was one of the few offices on which there promised to be a fight, and there was no disappointment. On the first ballot there were 62 votes cast. Of this amount John Ebbe received 24, Charles Lester 20, Geo. H. Smith 12 and J. E. Berg 6. On the second ballot there were 61 votes cast, Ebbe receiving 27, Lester 20, Smith 8, Berg 3 and John Lindahl 3. On the fourth ballot for sheriff there were 64 votes cast: 30 for Ebbe, 23 for Lester, 6 for Smith, 3 for Berg and 2 for Lindahl. On the fourth and last ballot Ebbe received 33, Lester 27, and Smith 4. This gave Ebbe a majority of all the votes cast and he was declared the nominee of the convention.

Jacob Lust of Milladore was then nominated for coroner and Luke Pitts of Pittsville for county surveyor. Theodore W. Brazeau of this city was then nominated for the office of district attorney.

For the office of county superintendent there were three aspirants, they being O. J. Leu, the present incumbent, Robert Morris of Arpin and A. E. Falch of this city. B. M. Vaughn presented A. E. Falch to the convention. Judge Andrew of Marshfield brought forth the name of Robt. Morris and George Varney spoke for Mr. Leu. Mr. Leu then addressed the delegates explaining his position on political matters, and the matter went to a vote.

The nomination was settled in one ballot, Leu received 7, Falch 12 and Morris 30.

W. D. Connor was elected chairman of the county committee. The delegates elected to attend the senatorial convention were Frank A. Cady, Wm. Hooper, Ed. Dumas, E. E. Winch, E. S. Bailly, E. Eichsteadt, Chas. Ecklund, A. L. Fontaine, C. E. Anderson, Dr. Houghton, A. E. Lapham, L. A. Fayette Porter and E. Smith. The delegates were instructed for Herman Wiperman of this city.

Mr. Cady then thanked the members of the convention for the honor conferred on him, and Mr. Morris also said a few words. T. W. Brazeau made a short address, also thanking the convention in a few well chosen words.

The Coal Supply.—A matter that is now agitating the minds of some of our citizens is where they are to get their winter supply of coal. We don't happen to need any coal just now, but the person who is a habitual resident of Wisconsin knows that there are cold days coming, when a ton of coal in the shed is a very necessary adjunct to housekeeping. During a talk with one of our coal dealers recently, the query as to what coal was worth brought forth the reply that it was only $3.50 a ton, but that he did not have any. And what was more, inquiry of dealers further south had elicited information that it was impossible to obtain any at present, and that there was no telling when they would be able to fill orders. In the large cities consumers are burning anything that can be obtained to take the place of their regular supply of hard coal, with a very dismal prospect for the coming winter. People who have complained that coal was cheaper than wood will probably find the matter reversed the coming winter.

Change In Location.—On the first of September the firm of W. Gross & Co. will occupy the building on the corner formerly used by Corribeau & Garrison as a general store. The new firm will make an exclusive grocery business of the place and promise to give the people of this section one of the best places of the kind there has ever been in this city. Messrs. Gross and Lemke are both young men of more than usual business ability, in fact have always proven to be hustlers and there is no question that in their new location they will be able to command a very good trade. The building into which they are going has an abundance of room, a thing they have been crowded for heretofore, while the location cannot be beaten in the city.

Looking for Water.—A gang of men have been at work on the property on the east side near the pumping station digging wells with a view to securing water for use in the water works system. Up to date they have not met with as much success as had been hoped for, but there is still a lot of ground to go over and they may strike a lead at any time that will give an abundant supply. Many people have been rather skeptical about securing enough water at this point to supply the city, but it is to be hoped that the search will be successful, otherwise our citizens will have to be content with a mixture of river and spring water, which would be quite a disappointment to those who have looked forward to the time when they would have pure spring water to use.

Democratic Caucus.—If you make any pretense of being a democrat do not fail to attend the caucuses on Saturday evening. Delegates will be elected to attend the convention at Marshfield, where delegates will be elected to the state convention, as well as delegates for the congressional and senatorial conventions. Don't imagine that they can get along just as well without you, for they can't. There was never a time in the history of Wisconsin when it was so necessary to put up good men for office, and the way to get these good men is for everyone to take an interest in political matters and be on hand to voice their sentiments.

Bridge Contract Let.—On Wednesday evening the bidge committee awarded the contract for reconstructing the bridge to the Modern Steel Structural company of Waukesha for the sum of $13,437, this being the lowest bid of the three submitted. The reconstruction will consist of: replacing the woodwork with iron, widening the walks to seven feet and placing a metal hand rail on both sides. Owing to the inability of obtaining material promptly the company would not put up a forfeit against any certain time, although it was the desire to have the time made March 15. An attempt will be made to finish the work during the coming winter.

Sign Your Name.—When you send in an item of news to the Tribune don't forget to sign your name at the bottom. We don't want to publish your name, but we do want to know who the author is. Another thing: Get in your news items before Wednesday afternoon as pretty generally too late for publication that week. Every week items are left out on account of neglecting to observe the above rules, and they will continue to be as long as these rules are not observed.

Low Water.—During the past week the water in the old Wisconsin has been down to just about the bottom notch, so low, in fact, that most of the mills that run by water power have been compelled to shut down a part of the time, while others have been able to operate only a part of their mill. The Grand Rapids Foundry and the Pioneer Wood Pulp company were both entirely closed for several days. Old residents, who have noticed the stage of water from year to year, say that it is the lowest in their knowledge.

Buying Chickens.—A party passed through this section last week engaged in buying chickens for the southern market. He stated that he was merely contracting for the fowls and that later he would have a car here to take them away. He was willing to buy anything in the shape of a chicken that was alive and said that they could all be disposed of to advantage. He agreed to pay at the rate of 6 a pound for old chickens and 8c for young ones.

Case Dismissed.—S. Rawson who was arrested on complaint of Game Warden Brown for killing prairie chickens out of season, was arraigned on Friday. When the case came to trial, District Attorney Wiperman stated that sufficient evidence had not been secured for conviction and he recommended the discharge of the defendant, which was done.

Caught Chicken Hunters.—Deputy Game Warden Brown and another warden caught two hunters over the line in Portage county in the act of killing prairie chickens. The offenders were taken to Stevens Point where they were fined $50 each with the costs. One of the men was from Bancroft and the other from Oshkosh.

Marriage Licenses.—Louis J. Putman of Vilas and Kathryn Walsh of Marshfield. Fred Cronstedt and Hilda Stolberg both of Sigel.

MR. CASTRO PROTESTS.

The President of Venezuela Makes Spirited Reply to the Kaiser's Note.

New York, Aug. 16.—A memorandum has been delivered to the German ambassador in Venezuela, and confidentially to the representatives of all the foreign powers, cables the Herald correspondent at Willemstad, Curacao. This memorandum was an answer to the note transmitted last December by Ambassador von Holleben to the United States government.

The German note informed the United States of its intention to occupy a Venezuelan port in order to enforce payment of the German claims.

President Castro's official answer to that note is regarded by members of his government as a strong document. He contends that Germany has not respected Venezuela's right to legislate both for Venezuelan citizens and for foreigners residing in Venezuela.

Castro insists that the claims of the Germans and other foreigners for damages during the civil wars should be presented to and decided only by Venezuelan courts.

Germany maintains that satisfaction cannot be obtained in that way owing to the well known peculiar characteristics of Venezuelan courts, which are President Castro's instruments.

The Kaiser's government contends that the claims should be settled by conferences between a German diplomatic agent and the Venezuelan minister of foreign affairs, and in case of a disagreement the matters should be referred to The Hague international court of arbitration.

President Castro's memorandum declares that the German claims have been exaggerated and contains a list of references to authorities on international law to support the government's argument. It is declared that Germany has not made a legal argument, but simply a series of demands, to the validity of which Venezuela objects.

In conclusion the Venezuelan memorandum says that the government presents to the German empire and to the friendly powers its protests against the ideas, imputations and charges of the German note of December 11 and declares that this protest is necessary.

It asserts that Venezuela as an independent nation objects to the motive of Ambassador von Holleben's communication to the United States government and considers that the note in its political aspect and as a character affects the integrity and the rights of the American hemisphere—an integrity which all American representatives must uphold and for the strengthening of which two international congresses have met through the influence of the United States.

RAILROADS AT WAR.

One Company Resisting Efforts of Another to Lay Tracks—Barricade Is Expected.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 16.—All night long the forces of the Wabash and the Pittsburg & Lake Erie railroads were stationed between the Artillery glass plant and South First street. Trouble was expected at any time, but the Lake Erie people did not try to break through the barricade erected by the Wabash forces, and there was no violence. The Wabash people have their property surrounded by piles of lumber, ties, wagons and everything that will close out intruders, and behind this breastwork are the Wabash employees armed with pick handles and other cudgels prepared to resist any attempt of the Lake Erie people to lay their tracks over the property.

Early this morning the commissary wagon from the Wabash tunnel arrived and the men were given their breakfast. The police are keeping an eye on the scene, but so far there has been no trouble.

Later today the battle between the Wabash and the Lake Erie railroads was taken into common pleas court No. 3. The Lake Erie won the first round by obtaining a preliminary injunction restraining the Wabash from entering upon ground said to belong to the Lake Erie.

Immediately after this decision a hearing was begun in a cross case. The Wabash sought to restrain the Lake Erie from entering on land claimed by it.

AGENT CLAIMS HE WAS ROBBED OF $28,000.

American Express Company Officials at Owensboro, Ky., Think It Is a Conspiracy.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 16.—A special to the Times from the Owensboro, Ky., says: The agent of the American Express Company at Fordville was robbed of $28,000 last night under peculiar circumstances. J. W. Boatner, who shipped the money to Fordville, is under arrest at Irvington and J. C. Stidham, the agent of the company, is being held at Fair. The express people and the officers believe that the whole affair was a conspiracy to defraud the American Express Company out of $28,000. Boatner is now under arrest at Irvington.

TAR AND FEATHER A WOMAN.

Angry Residents of Mount Morris Punish an Offender.

Rock Falls, Ill., Aug. 16.—Mrs. Florence Wolfe, who recently was given a coat of tar and feathers in Mount Morris for the alleged report that she made love to the husband of her dead sister who lay in an adjoining room, was given the second dose again Thursday evening.

Mrs. Wolfe had left the city some time ago, but returned, believing the anger of the population had abated. Her arrival in the city was a signal for taunts and jeers. She sought protection in the police court and this angered the people still more. They surrounded her home, stormed the house with stones, knocking out all of the windows, and then led her to the edge of the city, where the coat of tar and feathers was administered.

Orthographic Virtue.

It is no longer necessary that a gentleman should know how to handle a rapier or be learned in the "nice conduct of a clouded cane," but spell he must. Orthography has risen to the rank of a virtue, and to spell badly is wicked, or at least it is vulgar, which, as we know, is worse.—Vulgarian's Magazine.

M'MILLAN IS AT REST.

Late Senator's Wishes Preferring Simple Services Carried Out.

MANY SENATORS THERE

Various Industries Established by the Deceased Remain Silent During the Ceremony.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 15.—Extreme simplicity marked the funeral services this afternoon over Senator James McMillan, who died suddenly last Sunday at his summer home in Manchester, Mass. The services were as the dead man would have wished, without ostentation or display. It had been proposed that his thousands of employees should march in procession behind the hearse bearing his body to the tomb; that there should be a military escort and a public funeral commensurate with the senator's career. In obedience to the wishes of the family, however, this was given up and the simplest of ceremonies held.

The services began at 2:30 o'clock at the senator's late residence, 515 Jefferson avenue. The large house was crowded to its utmost capacity and many persons were unable to gain admission. Both branches of Congress, the state Legislature and all departments of state and city government were represented at the services. Gov. A. T. Bliss was present with several of his staff. The senatorial delegation included some of the most intimate friends of the dead senator. It was made up as follows: Senators Hanna, Ohio; Foraker, Ohio; Keen, New Jersey; McComas, Maryland; Allison, Iowa; Lodge, Massachusetts; Burrows, Michigan; Fairbanks, Indiana; Cockerill, Missouri; and Callahan, New Hampshire.

The District of Columbia, in which Senator McMillan was so deeply interested, was represented by District Commissioners McFarland and Biddle. The congressional delegation and other distinguished visitors assembled at the Russell house at 1 o'clock and proceeded to the house in a body. At 2:30 o'clock the soft strains of Handel's "Largo" came from the musicians and a hush fell over the assembled friends as the service began. Rev. Alfred H. Barr, for a long time the senator's pastor here, read the first verses of Psalm 96 and the last verses of the 13th chapter of First Corinthians. Sweetly then the musicians played "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," to the music of the "Refugee."

After a moment's silence Rev. Mr. Barr delivered a short prayer and the benediction ended the service. Tenderly the hearse raised the casket and carried it to the hearse. The interment was private. Followed only by the family and a very few intimate friends the body was taken to Elwood cemetery and placed in the McMillan mausoleum, which was filled with beautiful flowers.

As a mark of respect the car works here with Senator McMillan built up and developed were closed today and in many other plants in which he was interested work stopped at the hour of the funeral for a brief time. Even on the lakes the hour was observed by the cessation of work. Every vessel on the Detroit and Cleveland and Detroit and Buffalo steamers stopped at 2:30 o'clock and did not move for ten minutes.

FOR M'MILLAN'S SHOES.

Lively Fight in Prospect Over Selection of United States Senator in Michigan.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 15.—Indications are that there will be a lively fight over the selection of a successor to the late Senator McMillan, and it is evident that the Michigan Central railroad, an industrial factor in Michigan politics, will take a hand, because that company is anxious to bring out the construction of a railroad bridge over the Detroit river.

Senator McMillan's position on this question was that no bridge could be built until the Michigan Central and Grand Trunk should agree as to the location of the bridge and under the terms of the agreement the interests should be satisfied with the plans for the structure. These various interests could never agree, and thus the project has been held up in Congress for years.

Since the senator's death the bridge project has been revived and the Michigan Central people seem to be trying to bring about the selection of some man who will be friendly to their interests. Albeit himself is said to care for the position, and it is believed that he and the Michigan Central will back Gen. H. M. Puffer, who led a Michigan regiment at Santiago.

WOULD LEAVE FRANCE.

Sisters Appeal to Vatican for Permission to Settle in the United States.

Rome, Aug. 15.—Members of the religious order expelled from France, especially sisters, are applying to the Vatican authorities for permission to settle in the United States. A reply has been sent to them pointing out that there are no vacancies in the United States and besides calling attention to the difficulty arising from the fact that the expelled sisters do not speak the English language. Canada has been suggested as a better field, because French is spoken in a large area of the dominion. The applicants do not take kindly to the suggestion.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.

Dry Goods Store and Bank Building at Hamilton, O., Damaged to Extent of $250,000.

Hamilton, O., Aug. 15.—A most destructive fire began about midnight and was not under control until 4 o'clock this morning. The large dry goods store of T. V. Howell & Son where the fire originated is a complete wreck. The Second National Bank building adjoining the Howell block on the west was damaged considerably by fire and water, but the bank itself escaped with slight damage. The losses are estimated at $250,000, mainly in the Howell's store and the Second National Bank.

PUERTO CABELLO WAS NOT CAPTURED.

The Report that the City Had Fallen to the Rebels Is Without Foundation.

Caracas, Venezuela, Aug. 15.—The report of the capture of Puerto Cabello by the revolutionists is untrue.

IN ST. PAUL NEXT YEAR.

Gen. Hale President and Gen. King One of the Vice Presidents of Army of the Philippines.

Council Bluffs, Ia., Aug. 15.—Today was the last day of the reunion of the National Society of the Army of the Philippines and after the business meeting in the early day the veterans were entertained with excursions and sight-seeing.

Gen. Hale expressed his gratification at yesterday's action of the society in revising the bylaws and extending the limitations of membership and expressed the belief that the organization was now on a firm foundation.

The report of the nominating committee, naming the officers for the ensuing year was unanimously adopted as follows: President, Gen. Irving Hale, Denver; first vice president, Lieut. Donald MacRae, Council Bluffs; second vice president, Brig. Gen. Alfred St. Paul, St. Paul; third vice president, Brig. Gen. Charles King, Milwaukee; fourth vice president, Col. J. W. Pope, Colorado; fifth vice president, Brig. Gen. Wilder S. Metcalf, Lawrence, Kas.; sixth vice president, Capt. L. A. Crow, Council Bluffs; secretary, F. M. Schuetz, St. Paul; treasurer, C. B. Lewis, Colorado; chaplain, Rev. Charles Mailer, Nebraska.

The earlier part of the morning session was devoted to the question of location of the next year's reunion. Among the cities suggested were St. Paul, Portland, St. Paul, Milwaukee, Portland and Sioux Falls for 1906. St. Paul, however, had the lead and several delegates expressed the conviction that for the next few years the reunion should be in states from which the regiments came which formed the original Eighth Army Corps. St. Paul was chosen as the place for next year's meeting and the executive committee was given authority to change the date of the reunion for next year if deemed advisable to the first Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday in September.

GAS MAINS EXPLODE.

Workman at Marion, Ind., Is Blown Twenty Feet and Seriously Injured—Loses His Sight.

Marion, Ind., Aug. 15.—Fred Harris, an employe of the American Gas and Oil Company, was blown twenty feet by a gas explosion on a pipe line. It is feared he has permanently lost his sight. Workmen were heating a large 8-inch main in order to bend it when the main exploded.

The pumping station owned by the Indiana Pipe and Paper Company was blown to pieces by an explosion. Water had accumulated in the pipe and the pump, when the pump started, the water was forced into the pump station with such force that a nipple on a gas pipe was broken, allowing the gas to escape. It was ignited by lights in the building and exploded with great force. No one was about the building at the time and no loss of life resulted. The pump station, owned by the company, is closed on account of the shortage of gas as the result of the explosion.

DEPUTIES ARE RELEASED.

Officers Charged with Rioting Are Given Habeas Corpus Hearing at Wilkesbarre.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Aug. 15.—The twenty-five deputies and employes of the Warnke washery at Duryea who were arrested yesterday afternoon charged with rioting and committed to jail in default of $3000 bail each were given a habeas corpus hearing in court today and released upon furnishing a bond of $10,000 for the entire party. John T. Lenahan, counsel for the prisoners, furnishing the bond. Immediately after their release the deputies took a train for Duryea, where it is said they will go on duty again.

Duryea, the scene of yesterday's riot, was as quiet as a country village today. No attempt was made to resume operations at that place, and no crowd collected, and in consequence no crowd collected.

CHAUFFEUR EXPLAINS.

The Machine was Out of Order and Was Going at a Terrific Rate of Speed.

Paris, Aug. 15.—The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fair, who were killed in an automobile accident, were taken to the morgue today, pending instructions from the family as to their disposal.

The chauffeur said today that before the accident he noticed the tire of the left hand wheel of the machine was deflated and that the rim of the wheel was rubbing on the ground. He told Mr. Fair, who tried to stop, and the accident followed. Passengers who saw the automobile say it was going at such a terrific pace at some points that it was impossible to distinguish its color.

TOOK STRIKERS' PLACES.

Thirty-two Men Say They Were Lured to Pittston, Pa., and Compelled to Work in Washeries.

New York, August 15.—Thirty-two men and boys have made affidavits that they were lured from this city by a detective for one of the railroad lines, and in a locked car were sent to Pittston, Pa., where they are compelled to work in the washeries connected with the coal mines.

OPERA HOUSE FIRE.

Cincinnati Playhouse Damaged to the Extent of $75,000, Distributed Among Tenants.

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 15.—Shortly after noon today Pike's Opera house was discovered on fire. The flames spread rapidly but were controlled in less than an hour. The losses aggregate $75,000, distributed among many tenants.

DISSATISFIED WITH DOWIE.

Many Zion Residents Are Reported to Be Moving Away.

Waukegan, Ill., Aug. 15.—[Special.]—Dowie's flock at Zion City is suffering some withdrawals of discontented followers as well as gaining new adherents. The Porter family has just left and moved down here. They state that they know of others who are to leave soon.

SARTORIS-SCOVILL.

Granddaughter of Gen. Grant to Wed Cousin of President Roosevelt.

New York, Aug. 15.—The announcement of the coming marriage of Miss Wagon Norton, has been made by Mrs. Nellie Grant Sartoris, daughter of Col. O. Sartoris, Gen. Grant's granddaughter, is to wed Frederick Scoville, son of Chevalier and Mme. Edward Scoville and a cousin of President Roosevelt. Many American citizens have been invited to the wedding which takes place at 10 o'clock tomorrow at the church in New York.

WHICH ONE DIED FIRST?

ESTATE OF $10,000,000.

Fortune Depends on Evidence as to Whether Husband or Wife Lived the Longer.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 16.—The legal battle for the possession of the millions left by Charles Fair, who was killed in the wreck of his automobile near Paris has begun.

Lawyers have already been engaged to look after the interests of the relatives of Mrs. Fair, her mother and half brother have telegraphed from Newmarket, N. J., that they will come to San Francisco at once, and other members of the family of the dead woman have been heard from.

Mr. and Mrs. Fair made their wills just before starting for Europe last May, disposing of their separate holdings and community property. Knight & Haggerty, the attorneys of Charles Fair, decline to make public the provisions of the will.

Mrs. Fair was possessed of property to the value of $550,000, and it is thought her will bequeathed her holdings to her relatives in New Jersey. Charles Fair is believed to have given all his property to his wife and made her sole executor. Everything depends upon the evidence that may be produced which will show which of the two died first after the accident.

Law in the Case.

In the event that it is proved that Mrs. Fair survived her husband, then she became his heir and the entire estate under the will will pass to her relatives. If she died first the millions of Mr. Fair's estate would go to Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., who inherited his property. According to California law, if a man and woman meet instant death the man is presumed to survive longer by reason of his greater vitality. So if it is found that Mrs. Fair died first, Mr. Fair's estate may take all the property. Apparently both lived a few moments after the accident, and it only remains to be shown which died first.

Mrs. Joseph Harvey of this city, who was Mrs. Charles Fair's mother-in-law, has taken care of her relatives. "Now her will is to convey Charles Fair's millions to me," added Mrs. Harvey. "For she told me that her husband had made a will leaving all the property to her and making her executor without bond, and that she had the same time made a will giving all the estate to her relatives in New Jersey."

The sisters of Mr. Fair, Mrs. Oelrichs and Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., may upset the expectations of Mrs. Fair's family by claiming their brother's estate, which will probably result in a suit between Herman Oelrichs, brother-in-law of the deceased millionaire, is emphatic in his assertion that Charles Fair made a will shortly before leaving this city for Europe.

Bequest from Mother.

Mrs. James G. Fair left to her sons $500,000, with the provision that if either died before he reached the age of 30 his share should go to his brother, James G. Fair, Jr., died at the Lick house in February, 1892, leaving a few months of being 30 years of age, and his brother Charles received the half-million left to his older brother, making his individual fortune, apart from his share in the vast estate of his father, a round million.

The death of Mr. and Mrs. Fair and the litigation which is expected to follow will involve the entire estate of James G. Fair, and will have a serious effect on many projects already undertaken by the estate.

Charles Neal, the local manager of the Fair estate, said that preparations had been made to spend something like $3,000,000 in improvements. Part of the work is now under way. Lawyers will put a stop to this and tie up the finances of the estate indefinitely.

According to the best opinion Charles Fair's estate is worth less than $10,000,000. He had an undivided third interest in the property left by his father, the other two-thirds being held by his sisters, Mrs. Herman Oelrichs and Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr.

Wife's Relatives Active.

New York, Aug. 16.—Mrs. Anna Eliza Nelson of Newmarket, N. J., mother of Mrs. Charles L. Fair, believes that she and her children will secure all the $10,000,000 possessed by Charles L. Fair at the time of his death. In addition to this she expects the $500,000 which Mrs. Fair had in her own right to be divided between her and her children.

Mrs. Nelson stated positively that she did not intend to bring on an expensive litigation over the fortune, but she added significantly: "We certainly expect to be well treated."

With the knowledge of the thrift and frugality of Mrs. Nelson neighbors say that "fairly treated" to her mind means that she expects the greater portion of the fortune.

Mrs. Nelson said today that her daughter had assured her that on her death she would will her mother and brothers and sisters at least $100,000 each.

"Then she had $100,000 worth of jewels," said Mrs. Nelson, "and, of course, they will come to me."

Tells How It Happened.

Paris, Aug. 16.—The chauffeur of the automobile in which Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Fair was killed, whose name is Brocay, returned to Paris this morning. In an interview with the correspondent of the Associated Press he threw some further light on the cause of the accident, saying:

"I noticed the tire on one of the hind wheels was deflated. I realized the danger and jumping to my feet and leaning forward I shouted in Mr. Fair's ear in English: 'Stop quick, tire no good.' Mr. Fair glanced back but he did not reply. Apparently he tried to stop, but in doing so he must have made the wrong steering movement, as the machine swerved across the road and went in a straight line for a tree. The next moment came the crash and I was thrown into a field beside the road and stunned. When I recovered, I leaped to the side of my master and mistress and with the help of the gatekeeper's wife extricated the bodies from the wreck."

Couldn't Tell Which Died First.

Asked if either of them showed signs of life, Brocay replied: "Both seemed to be dead, but I was in such a dazed condition from shock and so confused by the catastrophe presented by the wounds on the heads of both victims that I did not notice whether either moved or not. The gatekeeper's wife said afterwards that Mr. Fair moved his foot and that his wife moved her hand as they lay on the ground, but I did not see the movements. The woman did not say whether the man or his wife stirred last."

The bodies are due to arrive in Paris at 5:55 this afternoon. They will be deposited in the vault of the Church of the Holy Spirit, and then shipped to the

AS FIRM AS THE HILLS.

Fourteenth Week of Miners' Strike—Their Fans' U b o k e r.

NO SIGNS OF BREAK.

Nearly a Million Men, Women and Children Are Cared for by the National Organization.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 16.—"The strike in the anthracite region is as firm as the everlasting hills. Confidence and quiet reign supreme."

Such is the "strike synopsis" of the situation in the anthracite field, as published in this week's issue of the Mine Workers' Journal, the official organ of the United Mine Workers of America. The fourteenth week of the strike has closed and the managers declare that the strikers are stronger than when the strike was declared.

"The fact that 179,000 men remain on strike for that period," said W. E. Wilson, secretary-treasurer, today, "without a sign of a break in the ranks is the strongest argument that I know of in favor of the justice of their claims. If even a portion of that number had been receiving living wages before the strike it would be next to impossible to keep them from returning to work."

"While the strikers are being cared for in the best manner possible, there is nothing in the provision that would make a man prefer to live in idleness if it were possible to earn a living in the mines."

Wilson says there is no fixed rule for the distribution of the money and supplies which are provided by the national organization. The census bureau says the average family consists of five members and on this basis the miners organization is caring for 935,000 men, women and children.

"I do not believe there is any way to beat the miners unless it is to starve them out," Wilson said, "and I do not see any very grave danger of that coming to pass."

Large sums are received daily by Wilson for the strikers fund. This is all sent to the strike region as rapidly as received.

RIOTING AT SHENANDOAH.

Crowd of Strikers Hurl Stones and Are Dispersed by the Soldiers.

Shenandoah, Pa., Aug. 16.—"This town, after a night of excitement, is again as quiet as it has been for the last two weeks. After midnight the streets were clear of all persons except the sentries. The quietness with which the troops were marched into the foreign quarter, where the disturbance occurred last night, opened the eyes of the people of the town."

For a time it looked as if there would be a serious fight. A company of infantry with fixed bayonets formed a hollow square about a nonunion workman whose life was in danger while a big crowd of strikers stood about hurling epithets and now and then a stone. Then the entire Twelfth Regiment and a battalion of the Eighth swept down from camp on the run, the crowd vanished into the darkness, and soon all was quiet. The disorder was the result of a mob chasing an alleged nonunion workman. The Philadelphia & Reading Coal and Iron Company's washery in the southeastern part of the town. There were fifty or sixty men in the mob. As they chased the man up the railroad throwing stones at him the night watchman of the washery, named Anthony Flinn, tried to rescue the man.

Watchman Thrown Into Creek.

The watchman was promptly thrown into the creek running parallel with the railroad by some of those leading in the chase. The crowd kept after the workman and he ran to the Reading railroad station, where a company of infantry was on provost duty. The company was immediately called into formation and attempted to hold the crowd back.

The mob caused a large crowd to gather from all directions and word was immediately sent to camp for reinforcements. When these arrived, three men, John Howe, Frederick Zimmermann and Arthur Brown, who are alleged to have been participants in the assault on the watchman and the workman, were arrested and taken to the town lockup. The troops were kept in the streets until a late hour.

No Attempt to Resume.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Aug. 16.—It was expected that the Warnke washery at Duryea would resume operations today and a crowd collected anticipating trouble. Sheriff Jacobs and a large number of deputies were present, but none of the former employees of the washery reported for work and no attempt was made to resume.

Gained All They Asked For.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Aug. 16.—With the signing of the scale by the Merchants Coal Company of Tonawanda, it is thought that the miners' strike in this district has come to an end. The miners gained all they asked for.

ANDREWS IS GUILTY.

Convicted by Jury of Misapplying Funds of City Savings Bank of Detroit, Mich.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 16.—Frank C. Andrews, late vice president of the wrecked City Savings Bank, was found guilty of misapplying the funds of that institution this afternoon at 2:15 o'clock after a trial that lasted four weeks. Attorney Kitchner at once notified the court that an appeal would be taken to the supreme court and a stay of proceedings for sixty days was granted. Although he was very nervous while the jury was out, Andrews took the verdict calmly. At 1 o'clock the jury stood eight for conviction and three for acquittal, one being undecided.

When the verdict was read Andrews' face whitened. "It's a terror," he said, "and it is unjust. I never intended to cheat or defraud anyone. God knows it."

INJUNCTION IS DENIED.

Effort of Philadelphia Club to Monopolize Services of Lajoie and Bernhard Fails.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 16.—The petition of the Philadelphia National League baseball club for an injunction against Lajoie and Bernhard, the ball players, was denied by Judge Struble in common pleas court today. The Philadelphia club sought to enjoin those two players from playing with any other than the Philadelphia club.

The case settles the status of the two players named for the balance of this season at least, as no further hearing of appeal can be had until after the close

CHEER THE BRAVE.

Boer Generals Arrive in London and are Enthusiastically Received by English People.

Southampton, Aug. 16.—Gens. Botha, Dewet and Delarey arrived here this morning and met with a great reception, both from government officials and the public.

The Boer generals looked remarkably well and evidently were much pleased at the heartiness of the welcome accorded them. Soon after landing they boarded the steamship Nigeria, where Joseph Chamberlain, the colonial secretary, Earl Roberts and Gen. Lord Kitchener greeted them. They were also introduced to Mrs. Chamberlain and Lady Roberts, with whom they charmed for some time.

Official arrangements had been made to permit the generals to witness the naval review, but after a conference with Abraham Fischer, the former Boer delegate who came from The Hague, it was announced that they intended to proceed direct to London in order to reach Holland as speedily as possible. The generals go to Holland to pay their respects to the memory of Gen. Lucas Meyer, who died of heart disease on August 5.

Gen. Dewet, in conversation here, confirmed the statement that he and his companions will visit the United States before returning to South Africa. London, Aug. 16.—The Boer generals reached London in the course of the afternoon and were loudly cheered in the streets. Asked why they had declined the government's invitation to witness the naval review the visitors remarked that they were "too tired after the long war and needed a rest." It is still uncertain whether or not they will return to Johannesburg and see the King.

The scene at the station on the arrival of the Boers was remarkable. An enormous crowd of people gave them a welcome such as was given to Lord Roberts and Lord Kitchener when they arrived here from South Africa. Shouts of "good old Dewet," "our friends, the enemy," and "brave soldiers, all" were frequently heard amidst a hail of cheers. Gen. Dewet was fairly covered by the mob and had to be rescued by the police who by sheer force cleared a line of retreat for him.

REVIEW WARSHIPS.

More Than a Hundred Naval Fighters Pass Before King Edward—Muzzle-Loader Still a Factor.

Portsmouth, Aug. 16.—King Edward completed the programme of the coronation festivities today by reviewing the fleet for the first time since his accession. From a spectacular point of view the assemblage of a hundred and odd war vessels in the roadstead off Spithead was a magnificent show, but to those looking beneath the brilliant veneer of paint and polish, it was evident that the fighting strength of the fleet was by no means formidable. The lines of ships were thickly dotted with ineffectives. Among these may be mentioned the third class cruisers, the gunboats, the torpedo boats, the minesweepers, the dredgers, the batherships, the Drednaught, Camperdown and Edinburgh, which are classed by some experts as absolutely dangerous to their crews, while some of the nominally effective fighters are still armed with muzzle-loaders. It must be pointed out, however, that the display represented merely the home fleet, not a single vessel having been withdrawn from a foreign station to participate in the pageant.

The day opened fine. There was an immense influx of visitors. The waters of the Solent were covered with pleasure craft of every variety, from the day canoe to the big excursion steamer, and every vantage point on shore was covered with spectators. At 3 a. m. in response to a signal, the fleet broke out flags and in the space of a minute the lines of black hulls were transformed into parti-colored lanes of fluttering bunting. Simultaneously the pennant of Admiral Sir Charles Hotham, the commander-in-chief at Portsmouth, was hoisted from the peak of the Royal Sovereign, which today acted as flagship of the fleet. Five other admirals' flags were also in view in different sections of the parade. The five lines in which the fleet was moored were located midway between the Isle of Wight and the mainland.

CHAPTER I.

From the towers on top of Darrel Chase, looking in three directions, one might gaze upon the broad domain that now was the inheritance of Roger Darrel.

A year previous his father had died, leaving all to his son. Before and after that sad event the young man had traveled over most of the known world, but at last, weary of wandering, he had come back to his native land, and once more trod the domain that had been in the family for generations.

On three sides could be seen the broad stretch of rich upland that called him master; over the avenue of elms of the ivy-mantled walls of Richmond Terrace. How well Roger remembered spending half his boyhood days in the strange manor house. His father and Lawrence Richmond had been bosom friends, and this intimacy had continued until Roger was over twelve years of age. Then some trifling dispute about a boundary line arose, and both being men of passionate tempers, it had waxed warmer until it assumed the proportions of a family feud.

The families were separated, and never to this day had Roger Darrel set foot upon Richmond property. When his father lay dying, he would have bridged over the chasm of hate, but Lawrence Richmond was either avaricious, or else refused to grant the request, Roger never knew which.

Some years before, the young man had heard that the whole of Richmond's family had been swept away by a pestilence while in the South, and that the bereaved old man had shut himself up in his manor, refusing to see any one but the servants.

There were few who knew Roger Darrel had returned to the house of his ancestors; they believed him still to be traveling in foreign lands, and the young heir made no attempt to undeceive them. He had no desire for company, but had come home for rest.

The day was bright and lovely. Wandering through the brave old forest that stretched out for miles back of the two plantations, the young master of Darrel Chase came upon the prettiest scene of a lifetime spent among what have been termed the beauty spots of the world.

Upon the bank of a picturesque little brook that sang noisily as it wended its way through the forest, a young girl sat with her book in her lap, but with her eyes fastened upon a little skye terrier came now, sorry I ventured to be so rash, but, having risked all, am not the man to turn back. I shudder to think what would be the result, if exposure came when I had won her love—had grown to think dearly of her myself. Heaven forbid it!"

As the steward of the great estate, Darrel Chase, the young man wooed and won Carol Richmond. She had led a somewhat lonely life, and he had dawned upon it like the prince in a fairy tale. To her he was all the world. Her love was not demonstrative, but it would live through time to eternity. Changes might come, bringing sorrow in their train, but the love of Carol Richmond, once gained, would last forever.

Roger Darrel should have been the happiest of mortals, as, standing in God's temple, the forest, he and Carol plighted their troth; in the sweet, hopeful future it should be "each for the other through time and eternity."

Although he had decided that the past must not come between him and Carol, yet there were times when a fearful dread seized upon him with such force as to make him shudder.

What if she should learn the truth in some way; would she not hate, despise and loathe him? Was ever man placed in such a fearful dilemma? Duty lay on one side, love on the other. He closed his eyes, and blindly rushed on to his fate.

It was in the latter part of July, and for the time of year the weather was delicious. Roger and Carol were seated on an old log in the picturesque forest, watching the antics of little Fido, and looking through the green aisles of the romantic woods.

They had been engaged over a week now, and on this very day Roger had decided to disclose his personality to his betrothed. They talked of the future, and how happy they intended to be, little knowing or realizing that a shadow was hanging above them, even at that moment.

While Roger and the girl he loved with heart and soul sat thus upon the old log, the sound of heavy footsteps close at hand came to their ears. The two lovers sprang like frightened deer to their feet, and as they did so Roger heard a fierce, imperative uttered in a low, deep voice.

Standing within ten feet of the two lovers was an elderly man, one who had evidently reached the age of three-score years, as was indicated by his iron-gray hair and beard, the former of which fell which was performing all manner of antics upon the opposite side of the stream. Indeed, the first intimation he had of her presence was the girlish laugh, so clear and silvery, like the notes of a true bell, with which she had greeted some escapade of the little animal.

Afterward, when he looked back to this time, Roger Darrel realized that his heart had gone out to this girl then and there, even before he had exchanged a word with her.

He had seen much of life, but whatever strange may have befallen him, Roger Darrel had never loved before. It was a long time before he would acknowledge the truth, even to himself, but it seemed that from the very minute he gazed upon that face, the misanthropic ideas engendered by a lonely life vanished as if touched by a magician's wand, and all the earth appeared beautiful.

They soon became friends. There was something intensely attractive about Roger Darrel. He was strikingly handsome, talented, and, besides, had an air of sincerity about him that must have earned respect from every one who was not a deadly foe.

It made him win a little when he learned just before they separated that her home was at Richmond Terrace, but he understood that she was a niece of the old gentleman, for had he not lost his whole family when in the South?

It came about that Carol Richmond had heard him to be the steward of Darrel Chase, for, like the neighbors, she firmly understood the young master to be still abroad.

Some time passed before Roger realized this mistake on her part, and then it had gone so far that he decided to let things take their own course, though he would not say a single word to add to the deception she unwittingly practiced upon herself.

There was no agreement to meet again, and yet a tacit understanding seemed to rest between them to the effect that at certain hours Carol was wont to frequent this place, and that he should find her there.

That night Roger Darrel, pacing up and down the avenue of elms, was thinking of the young girl, and trying to picture her in his mind. One would think from his manner, and the style of his mutterings, that he was deciding a weighty question.

"I am a villain, if I seek to gain her love with this secret in my life. How the good people here would shun me, if they only knew the truth. I am sorry I came now, sorry I ventured to be so rash, but, having risked all, am not the man to turn back. I shudder to think what would be the result, if exposure came when I had won her love—had grown to think dearly of her myself. Heaven forbid it!"

While Roger and the girl he loved with heart and soul sat thus upon the old log, the sound of heavy footsteps close at hand came to their ears. The two lovers sprang like frightened deer to their feet, and as they did so Roger heard a fierce, imperative uttered in a low, deep voice.

Standing within ten feet of the two lovers was an elderly man, one who had evidently reached the age of three-score years, as was indicated by his iron-gray hair and beard, the former of which fell upon his shoulders, yet it was plain to be seen that his iron constitution had resisted the ravages of time, and that he was as hale and hearty as most men at forty.

His countenance would have been a remarkable one at any time, but seen just then, colored with the feeling of anger that seemed to possess his soul, it was a face that Roger would never forget to his dying day.

Roger Darrel had not seen him for more than fifteen years, but some intuitive power seemed to tell him that he was now face to face with the man who had refused to forgive his father, even on his death bed—Lawrence Richmond.

The tableau remained unbroken for more than a full minute, and then it was the old gentleman who made the first move.

"Ah!" he exclaimed, almost hissing the words through his clenched teeth, while his hand tightened its grasp upon his cane. "A light breaks in upon me. It is easy to understand now why your attentions have been so well taken up that you have had no time to spare with me. And you, a Richmond, betray the trust I put in you. For shame, Carol, for shame!"

The young girl tried to stammer out some excuse, but he would not listen to her.

"Hush! do not make the matter worse by attempting to explain. You have deceived me, and nothing can undo that. Still, it might have been worse, and I may yet forgive this lover, who is too much of a craven to seek you in your father's home. Turn around, young man, and let me see your face. My eyes are not what they used to be, and you have held your head low, as if your soul recognized the wrong you have been doing my daughter's fair name in these clandestine meetings. If you be a man, raise your head, sir, and look me in the eyes."

His tone was insulting, considering the fact that he was addressing a proud man, and the wealthiest land owner for many miles around. Roger knew that an explosion was at hand, but he was now nervous to meet it. He removed his hat and with manly dignity stood before the old gentleman. There was no reason why he should be ashamed because he loved the daughter of his deadly enemy, and yet a cold chill seemed to pass over his heart, as he saw the look that appeared upon Lawrence Richmond's face.

The sneer that had accompanied his words gave way to a look of implacable hate and savage fury. "You are other than I believed," he finally gasped, rather than spoke. "I am Roger Darrel," replied the young man, simply.

"Then you are my bitterest foe. You thought to strike a blow at my heart, by stealing my pet daughter, but heaven has thwarted you, you villain," grated he, as one hand grasped Carol's wrist and drew her to him, while with the other he shook his heavy cane in Roger's face.

CHAPTER II.

The action of the old gentleman was so aggressive that Roger instinctively fell back a pace before the threatening cane, but he speedily recovered, and faced the enraged man calmly.

"Believe me, Mr. Richmond, I declare to you on my honor as a gentleman—"

"Honor! A Darrel speak of honor! Come, now, that is too good, young man!" The blood leaped into Roger's face at this insult. A younger man would have paid the penalty of his rashness on the spot. Lawrence Richmond's age caused the young man to hold his impulse in check.

"Mr. Richmond, you and my father were enemies, but at his death he would have had you with him so that he might have asked your pardon for his share of the difference existing between you two. Whether you ever received his message, or not, I do not know, but you gave no sign. He is in his grave now, and I, his only son, have given you no reason to hate me. Then why should we not be friends? There was a time when you dangled Roger Darrel upon your knee; will you now refuse to even clasp his hand?"

"Friends!" almost shouted the old man in his unchangeable rage, for he possessed a fearful temper. "I tell you I hate your name; I hate your face; I hate even the sight of your presence. Go from here, and never let my daughter see your hateful countenance again. Touch your head?"

Sooner would I clasp a viper whose fangs were laden with poison. Once for all, Roger Darrel, let me tell you we can never be friends; we shall be enemies to the death. I am a man of iron will, as perhaps you know. Carol, look your last on this man who would have caused you to weep tears of blood; then come with me."

For one minute they stood looking into each other's face; then the savage old man wheeled, and still retaining his hold of Carol's wrist, walked away with a vigor that was surprising, considering his age, and yet which stamped his words true: he was a man of iron will.

Slowly Roger made his way home, but the broad domain over which he had so lately gloated as the home to which he would bring his bonny bride had lost all its charms for him.

Hardly had he passed from Carol's sight, down the forest aisle, before the bushes rustled not far away, and a female form thrust itself into view, a girl's face, with the largest black eyes imaginable, which were flashing with mingled fires. Her sudden and weird appearance startled Roger, and caused him to spring back out of her way.

She passed swiftly on, muttering vehemently to herself, but Roger was so deeply absorbed in his own sad love affair that, having recovered from his surprise, he paid no further attention to her.

He did not see the girl suddenly turn, cast upon him the intensest freight of those flashing eyes, nor hear her awful threat.

"The blow is falling, Roger Darrel, and it shall be the hand of the despised gypsy that sends the poisoned dart into your heart. Pain and trouble—thou shalt come to you through Barbara Merdies!" (To be continued.)

Her Preference.

Sada Yacco is a charming Japanese actress, who is not only professionally delightful, but in private life tells exactly what she thinks in a way which offends nobody.

Not long ago, says the New York Sun, she was honored, during her stay in Paris, by a request to appear at a private entertainment to be given by Monsieur Loubet, President of France.

Every one was delighted with her recitations, and the President brought out and presented to her an exceedingly rare and valuable Sevres vase.

The little lady was pleased, but not for that reason did she ignore the practical side of the question. She gazed at him with that beaming and childish smile only to be attained by the Japanese.

"Very sorry," said she, in her soft, broken French. "Very sorry. Not take vase to Japan. Too far. Get broken. Take money. Very sorry."

The onlookers gasped, but Sada Yacco still beamed upon the President. She was serenely unconscious of having done anything out of the ordinary course. But she got her money and offended nobody.

Easy to Believe.

An inspector was watching a gang of men clear the snow from a New York street. There were some dozen men, says the Evening Post, all working indifferently, getting in each other's way, or standing idle until the foreman "went" for them. One, however, was working in a different manner.

"That is Pat Connelley's cart," said the inspector, "and that is Pat."

He pointed to a sturdy little Irishman, who buried and lifted a big shovel with the precision of a machine. When his cart was good and full, he received two tickets for it instead of one because it was a double load, hard packed. He drove briskly away, leaving other carts that had come up before him still waiting to be filled.

"That is Pat Connelley," repeated the inspector, thoughtfully. "He has been a day-laborer all his life, and yet he is worth a small fortune. To my knowledge he owns sixty thousand dollars' worth of property, free of debt."

FARMS AND FARMERS

Shade for Chicks.

There are thousands of chicks hatched late in the season that need protection from the sun's rays to enable them to make a proper growth during the summer. The coop illustrated may be used, or any coop of a plan best suited to the ideas of the poultry raiser; any of them may be protected by an arrangement such as shown. Whatever the form of the coop, the shed which is to furnish shade should be built on the slant shown, so that any rain which falls on it may be shed. To make this roof, a frame should be built of light lumber and the corner stakes driven firmly into the ground. The top may be covered with light cornstalks, hay, straw or burlap; in fact, with almost anything that will not draw heat, and which will be fairly weather-proof.

Such an arrangement as shown will be of great benefit to the chicks, for it will give them a cool and shady place after a run on the range. A number of these shades may be made at very small cost, so that there is no excuse for going without such a protection for the coops.

Riz for Corn Huskers.

For the benefit of those who have corn to husk, I send a sketch of a platform I made to husk fodder on. I find it very simple and convenient.

Take two 6-in. boards, c. c. 4 ft. long, for cleats. Space them so they will pass between the two center crosspieces under the wagon box.

Nail four boards 2 ft. long on end of cleats, as shown in the cut. This makes the platform on which to lay fodder. Take a piece of hard wood, b. 3 in. wide and 1/2 in. thick, long enough to reach from one crosspiece to the other, bolt this to the under side of two center crosspieces of wagon box. This can be done by taking the nuts of the braces on side of wagon box, as shown in the drifted in, yielded more bushels per acre, in proportion to seed used, than seeding by hand.

Care of Poultry House.

Nine out of ten poultry houses remain uncleaned during the summer, except for the removal of the droppings, if the houses are occupied. As a result the lice greatly increase in number, and are responsible for the slow growth made by many of the chickens during the summer.

There is no reason why the houses should not be fumigated during the summer almost as regularly as during the winter, and the labor involved is really not so great. An abundance of whitewash and some carbolic acid will usually do all necessary to rid the houses of lice, provided it is applied so that all cracks and crevices are reached. Nest boxes should be removed and new ones substituted unless the old ones can be thoroughly cleaned. Roosts should come down so that the disinfectant may be placed in all the cracks; in short, the house should be thoroughly cleaned, and that several times during the summer.

Grain and Dairy Farming.

An important difference between dairy farming and grain farming is the amount of the farm that is sold with the product that is of the fertility of the farm. The man who sells a ton of wheat sells in it about $7 worth of fertilizing elements, and if he does not buy something to replace them his farm is so much poorer. The dairyman who sells a ton of butter has sold but fifty cents' worth of fertilizing material, and if he is a good dairyman, he has probably added much more than that, or twenty times that to the value of the farm in the bran, oil meal, cotton seed or other food that he purchased while feeding his cows for making that ton of butter. It is in this way that the dairyman's farm is continually growing more productive, and if he does not make much from his dairy, he should from the crops that he can grow on his much enriched soil.—American Cultivator.

A Plow Shoe.

The good farmer does not throw the plow on its side and drag it from one field to another. He will make a wooden runner, as shown in the cut, or he cuts away an old boot or shoe, all but the sole and toe, for a runner. The good appearance of a lane or roadway should not be spoiled by plow marks—it looks as if the farmer didn't care.—Epitomist.

Late Fodder Crops.

Late fodder crops include Kaffir corn, millet, sorghum, rape, corn, the cereals and the clovers. One writer claims that where hogs are kept rape is the greatest of all those mentioned, as a half acre will feed forty hogs during the season if the crop gets a good start. Sorghum is looked upon as one of the very best crops for shocking and curing to be fed out during the winter. As this crop may be seeded after cereals have been harvested, there is still ample opportunity to prepare the soil and sow the seed. If the soil is plowed to a depth of three or four inches and afterwards well worked down with the harrow and cultivators such a seed bed will favor the production of several tons of cured sorghum per acre. One writer recommends Mammoth Early Orange as being the best sorghum for both fodder and seed purposes.—Iowa Homestead.

A Change Needed.

Fowls will often do well on a small place for several years and then fall off and become unprofitable just as the owner thinks he has learned it all. The usual reason is either that the stock has become run out by too much confinement or that the fowls have used up some of the things about the place which they need. They have killed out the grass, used up all the sharp gravel or perhaps the soil has become infested with disease or the coops with lice. Remedy is to note conditions, supply what is needed and introduce fresh stock.

Mule Statistics.

According to the government census of 1900, there are 3,271,121 mules in the United States. It is also stated by the census officials that mules are increasing in this country. According to the enumeration in 1890, 157,022 mule colts were foaled in 1880, whereas in 1890 the number had increased to 231,697. The actual increase of the total number of mules in the entire country is said to be some 34 per cent during the past ten years.

Growing Radishes.

The radish is a hardy plant and can be grown every month from spring until late in the fall. But few should be planted at a time, as they soon become tough if left in the ground or are allowed to approach maturity. To have them crisp and tender they should be grown on rich soil and forced, as the sooner they reach the table stage the better their quality.

Motor Plow.

The Agricultural World of London England, says that Dr. Gatling, inventor of the Gatling gun, has invented a plow to be operated by a gasoline motor. He claims that it can be run at a cost of $2 per day, so that it will do the work of thirty men and eighty horses. He proposes to make it

Dr. Frank Crane will resign his pastorate of the People's Church in this city, having finally accepted the call extended to him by the Union Congregational Church in Worcester, Mass.

Henry Freudenauer has filed a bill to have the marriage of his 18-year-old son Fred with Maria Norman annulled. The bill states that Fred was compelled against his will to marry Maria, and that he was taken against his will to St. Joe, Mich., where the ceremony was performed.

After being arrested for assaulting a special policeman at the Harlem race track, Lemuel Lloyd, a jockey, escaped with his caprioles, although manacled with handcuffs. Edward Heidebreck, the special officer who was assaulted, is in a precarious condition.

Because he insisted on his wife getting up and preparing a morning meal, Solon Thomas, colored, was shot four times by the woman. Thomas' wounds are considered serious. Instead of getting up the woman reached for the revolver under her husband's pillow.

Mrs. Kristine Duck, wife of John Duck, with a young son, secured a $100 suit for libel for slander against her former friends and neighbors, Henry Sippel, his wife Frida, August Petersen who boards with them, and Christian Borker, editor of a Norwegian paper, called the Reyken.

An investigation begun yesterday into the circumstances connected with the death of James M. Murphy, which occurred at Yorkville, N. Y., April 1, may lead to one more murder mystery. The body was exhumed. Examination proved that Murphy had not died of scarlet fever, as the death certificate had indicated, and a thorough chemical and microscopical analysis will be made of the various organs.

Death of Pansy Farrish.

Pansy Geneva Farrish, daughter of John Farrish of this city, died on Sunday, August 17th after an illness of several months, the cause of death being tuberculosis. Deceased was in her twentieth year, having been born on the 9th of October, 1882.

Miss Pansy was one of the bright young ladies of our city, beloved and mourned by all of her numerous friends in this city. She had lived her entire life in this city and was a graduate from our high school, being a member of the class of '01. Last autumn she went to Wausau to attend business college, it being one of her strongest desires to perfect her education, and while there she contracted a heavy cold which affected her lungs and from this she never recovered.

She came home to spend the Christmas holidays with her people, and when the time came for her to resume her studies she was unable to do so. Since that time she has been confined to her bed much of the time, and has gradually failed in spite of the best medical assistance that could be secured.

Some improvement was noticed in her condition during the past two weeks and her relatives had some hope of her recovery, but the cool weather that came on seemed to affect her seriously and in her weakened condition she was unable to resist the change and the end came on Sunday. The funeral was held from the house this morning, the funeral services being conducted by the Rev. W. A. Peterson. Many floral tributes were received from those who had been her friends during life, and the pall bearers were made up from her class mates who had known her best during the happiest time of her existence.

Her brother Roy, who is located in Montana, was unable to attend the funeral, he having only received the notice of her death on the day of the funeral.

May Prove Disastrous.

As was anticipated by those who knew or had guessed at the inside workings of the republican machine in this county, when the name of Charles Lester was presented to the republican convention at Marshfield, there was a united effort to beat him out, and they were successful. In spite of the determined opposition of the leaders, he made a good showing and it is the opinion of his friends that had the convention been left to take its course he would have been nominated without trouble.

This may have been the case, and it may not. There were other good men before the convention ready to take the office, but of course they never stood a ghost of a show.

It is understood that one of the prominent men on the ticket circulated the report that he would withdraw from the contest if the Marshfield man was not nominated, and this had the desired effect of swinging them into line for the man from the north end of the county.

This is the kind of politics that the American people do not approve of and if the man from the north end is beaten this fall, as he undoubtedly will be, they have only themselves to thank for the blunder they have made.

The Drainage Case.

The famous drainage case that has occupied so much attention for some time past was settled on Thursday by the jury finding for Conrad Meyer in the sum of $450. Mr. Meyer was the only one interested that the drainage company was not able to settle with without a suit. He had been assessed for construction purposes by the company, but wanted something like $800 damages.

Peter Hackney and A. F. Hackney were settled with out of court for the sum of $2,000. The Hackneys had been assessed for construction and benefits to the tune of $379, making a difference to them of $2,379. The town of Remington was assessed for $1,400, but this amount was reduced out of court to $650 and a settlement effected. August Seebrecht settled out of court for the sum of $25.

The settlement of these cases has made it so that work on the drainage canals can be commenced as soon as the projectors desire, and when the canals are completed it is figured that an immense tract of land will be opened for farming purposes.

Opinions as to the value of this land for farming purposes seem to differ. Some think that it will be of excellent quality, while others who claim to know from experience say it is of very little value. One man who has spent the greater part of his life in that section states that the land is of very little use when drained and cultivated. He says that his experience has been that about one crop of almost any kind seems to exhaust the soil, and that it is hard to get anything after the first year. However he admitted that it might be possible with the proper cultivation and fertilization to make productive farms out of the tracts.

Died.

The seven months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Whitrock of the town of Sigel died on Tuesday after an illness of only a few days of summer complaint. The funeral occurs tomorrow from the Lutheran church in Sigel, Rev. Baese officiating. This being the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Whitrock, they naturally feel their loss keenly, and they have the sympathy of their friends and neighbors in their affliction.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

Burt Williams of Ashland has been mentioned as candidate for lieutenant governor. Burt is mayor of Ashland and will be remembered as the young man who was elected president of the Wisconsin Municipal league at its meeting in this city last spring, and is a very able man. It might be a shame to sentence him to the oblivion of the office of lieutenant governor.

B. W. Brown brought suit against the La Crosse Mutual Aid association on Thursday for services claimed to have been rendered the company's agent while he was soliciting business a few weeks ago in this city. The suit was for $100 and was brought before Justice Getts, but an adjournment was asked until the third day of September, which was granted.

Stevens Point Journal: Geo. N. Wood of Grand Rapids was in the city on Friday on business. George is much pleased with the new Masonic Temple. This is his first visit to our city in three years.—Miss Capper of Philadelphia and Miss Herschle of Grand Rapids, who were the guests of Mrs. S. Adams for several days, left Saturday for Grand Rapids.

—The Stevens Point Fair association which holds its third annual exhibition and race meet Aug. 26, 27 and 28, offers $5,000.00 in premiums and purses. This liberal sum is attracting the best strings of horses in the country and the most extensive exhibitors in this part of the state. Their fair this season will undoubtedly be the best ever held in central Wisconsin.

One of our citizens has suggested that the decorations that were placed on the library building last spring when the municipal league met here, be removed. However, this was only a suggestion on his part, and he does not want to be arbitrary about the matter if any one would like to have them remain there. It might be well to have the bunting taken down before snow comes.

Marshfield Times: On Tuesday Deputy Game Warden George W. Brown of Pittsville, and Valentine Raeth of Milwaukee, arrested Charles Regele for having in his possession a red deer skin which was taken as evidence that the animal had been killed out of season. The defendant was arraigned before Justice William Hirth where he pleaded guilty and was fined $25 and costs amounting to less than $30 as the warden remitted their fees. The hide was sold according to law to William Uthmeier.

—"The Convict's Daughter" one of the solid melodramatic successes of last season will be the attraction at the Grand Opera house, Tuesday Aug. 26th. The secret of the success of "The Convict's Daughter" is that it touches the heartstrings of its auditors. It is also filled with comedy of the higher order and does not depend upon buffoonery or vulgarity to amuse the public. It comes to us this year with entirely new scenery and altogether brighter and better than ever.

At the meeting of the grand lodge of Elks at Salt Lake City last week it was decided not to allow any more carnivals or street fairs to be held under the auspices of the Elk lodge. This rule takes effect after the 1st of January, 1903. This is probably a good thing for the order, as these street fairs and so-called carnivals seem to have degenerated into affairs that are anything but decorous: a place where the toughs that congregate are endowed with unlimited license to do whatever enters their head without any regard to decency.

—There was quite a stir on the streets the other day when the deputy game warden took our old townsman F. Beadle in custody. It appears that J. C. Iverson Co. of Milwaukee found out that they had been furnishing him picture moulding and he had made it into frames below cost and by so doing had injured their trade but when the game warden heard the result of the vote for the biggest liar in the city among the old soldiers, and found that out of 500 votes F. Beadle got 475, he released him. He said it was no use he would lie out of it any way. So he is still making frames, repairing furniture and wheels at his shop opposite the Hasbrouck livery barn two doors above Spafford. Cole & Co's store.

A new dynamo has been ordered for the electric light plant to replace one of the new machines recently installed. When the two new dynamos were recently put in place it was expected that one of the machines would be operated when necessary and that when the load became too heavy the other dynamo would be thrown into use, by the use of a clutch, operating both by the same engine and belt. This was found to be impractical, however, owing to the inability of getting the pulsations of the two machines to coincide without a great deal of trouble. As the company that installed the machines guaranteed them to work, it will have to stand the expense of making the change.

Stevens Point Gazette: John G. Docka has bought of the Andrew Lutz estate a one story house and two lots, located at 124 Algoma street, which highway is two blocks in length, between Illinois and Wisconsin avenues. Mr. Docka purchased the property from Herman Wiperman of Grand Rapids, administrator of the Lutz estate. He bought it "dirt cheap," paying only $375, which is less than the bare lots are worth.—Henry Haertel, the marble dealer of this city, has secured a contract for erecting a mausoleum in the Grand Rapids cemetery for Mrs. John Daly, of that city. It will be twenty feet in width, contain nine crypts, and constructed out of Bedford stone. John Daly, it will be remembered, was fatally injured in a runaway accident last winter.—Mrs. H. N. Woodworth has arrived home from an extended visit with her daughter, Mrs. A. N. Palmer, at Grand Rapids.—Mrs. Thos. Love of Grand Rapids is visiting at the home of her brother-in-law and other relatives in this city.

THE ADVENTIST MEETING.

Good Crowds and Enthusiastic Meetings Daily.

The Seventh Day Adventists opened their meetings in this city on Thursday evening last at 7:30, and since that time meetings for the public have been held three times a day, at 10:30, 2:30 and 7:30. At several of the evening meetings the attendance has been such that the large tent has been full, showing that there were about 1500 people present.

The attendance of Adventists has not been quite as large as had been expected, although crowds have been arriving daily, making it entirely probable that before the sessions are over the entire tent room will be taxed to its utmost.

The reports at the conference meetings indicate that the faith is flourishing in good shape in this state, there having been seventeen new churches established during the past year.

Reports show that this growth has not been confined to any one part of the state, but has been pretty general throughout. The members feel generally encouraged over the outlook for their church as a great many of their members are very enthusiastic workers.

Among the elders present are some very interesting talkers, many of whom have devoted nearly their entire life to the work, and are consequently well fitted for their labors.

The Adventists will close their labors here Sunday next, after which there will be a general exodus for home.

A Hygienic Dinner.

In response to a number of invitations sent out by the committee of the Seventh Day Adventists, a large number of our citizens assembled at their grounds on Sunday afternoon to partake of a dinner served on the strictly vegetable plan.

For the uninitiated to attempt to subsist entirely on a vegetable diet would indeed prove a hardship, for the reason that there are many things prepared from the cereals that the average person has never heard of, and there are ways of preparing the common eatables that are entirely foreign to the person who has depended his lifetime on meat for the mainstay of his diet.

The Adventists, however, have reduced the preparation of cereals to a science, and a visit to their grocery fills one with wonder at the large number of preparations that are kept for sale there.

To take the place of cow's butter, they make a preparation from peanuts by grinding them up. This is called peanut butter and forms the basis for preparations requiring a fatty substance, such as lard or butter. While the butter thus produced does not taste like ordinary cow's butter, it contains an abundance of grease that no doubt serves all the requirements of the human system, and the Adventists claim that it is much more healthful than animal fat.

The expressions concerning the dinner served were somewhat varied. People who are not in the habit of consuming a great deal of meat expressed themselves as being greatly pleased with the service and seemed to be well satisfied with the meal, while there were others who are in the habit of consuming a great deal of meat who said that they felt as if they had not eaten anything.

Of course the living on a vegetable diet exclusively is an acquired art with mankind as he exists today, but that it is healthy and life-sustaining is evidenced by the condition of those who make a practice of partaking only of this sort of fare, for they are as robust and healthy as any class of people to be found anywhere.

"The GAME KEEPER"

A beautiful and interesting Irish drama from the pen of Con T. Murphy will be produced at the Grand Opera House late in September.

Thos. J. Smith who is a recognized star of youth and talent is at the head of this production, and his managers, Messrs. Rowland and Clifford, have surrounded him with a company of unusual talent. "The Game Keeper" is a pretty story of the Emerald Isle presented with a wealth of gorgeous scenery and effects.

During the play, numerous specialties are introduced. Thos. J. Smith who is one of the greatest singers of today will introduce several new songs expressly written for this production. He is ably assisted in this feature by Sadie Marion, and a very clever child artist: Baby Patti.

Manawa 4, Grand Rapids, 12.

The baseball boys went to Manawa Sunday and played a game with the boys over there and carried off the persimmons by a score of 12 to 4. Those who saw the game say it was a good one from start to finish even though the Manawa team was outclassed, and that the home boys had to play for what they got. Following are the names of the two teams:

Grand Rapids.	Manawa.
W. M. Petzold.....catcher.....	F. Lindow
C. N. Akey.....pitcher.....	A. Kern
A. E. Baudelein.....short stop.....	Sim Walrath
A. Bandem.....second base.....	Bill Bovee

E. Bassett.....center field.....	Guy Mallory
A. E. Weber.....left field.....	Ben Schweger
H. Duffert.....right field.....	Jim Garry
John Mahoney.....3d base.....	Chas. Scanlon
Geo. Belot.....umpire.

The boys report that they received fine treatment at the hands of their hosts, and that the umpire was strictly on the square. The boys are now negotiating with Marshfield to try to get them down here for next Sunday.

Read What These People Say, Their Advice May Save You Many Dollars.

"I have found Greene's Infallible Liniment to surpass anything of the kind I ever used." Mar. Buck, Charlotte, Mich.

"I know of no better liniment and would not be without it." W. L. Barkley, Lexington, Ky.

"I find it the best thing for lameness and sore tendons." John Geyron, Gretna, Ill.

"I find it an excellent remedy for sore necks and shoulders. It is the best liniment I ever used." E. G. Hoppes, State Center, Iowa.

"Its healing powers are wonderful. It does the work quickly when applied to galls, scratches, sores and open wounds." W. G. Newbury, Chicago, Ill.

"I have used Greene's Infallible Liniment for a long time and would not think of training a stable of horses without having it on hand. I recommend it to horsemen." W. L. Snow, Hornellsville, N.Y.

"My stable men inform me that they have for some time used Greene's Infallible Liniment on my horses in cases of sores, sprains, swellings, etc., and have found it very effective and satisfactory." Chas. H. Slack, Chicago, Ill.

"I cheerfully recommend it to all who keep horses." C. A. Smith, Auburn, N.Y.

"My barn foreman has used Greene's Liniment and finds it the best he has ever had in our stables." W. H. Raymond, Milwaukee, Wis.

There is only one thing more convincing than the testimony of others, that is actual personal experience, then of yourself you know. Greene's Infallible Liniment will be found on trial to be the best external remedy, for either man or beast, that the market affords. It is an honest medicine made to sell on its merits and win such favor with all as to be adopted and kept constantly on hand.

It is equally adapted for use in the household, the stable or the training quarters. Try it and you will feel that you have found a friend for yourself, your family and your horses. Many prudent mothers keep it on hand for the various hurts of childhood. It is without a rival for the treatment of sprains, strains, cuts, bruises, sores, open wounds, inflammation and swelling. Family sizes are 25 and 50 cents. A large size at $1.00 is prepared for stable use.

All the best druggists keep Greene's Infallible Liniment or will get it for you if you ask them to. Accept no substitute. There is no other liniment that will take its place and do its work, no other that is like it or "just as good."

PITTSVILLE.

[From the Pilot.]

Oscar Otfelle, of the firm of Otfelle & Stoddard Land Co., received a telegram from E. W. Ring, Thursday, to come to Tampa, Florida, where Mr. Ring is looking over a business proposition of considerable magnitude. T. W. Pitts, formerly of Pittsville, is the party who is locating them and they may acquire 8,000 acres of timber lands, only eight miles from the city of Tampa, a city of 45,000 people. The land is located on the two railway lines that enter that city and one corner of the land is on tide water. The county is building a $2,000,000 shell road through the tract and a street car line is now running cars within three miles of it. Cleared land adjoining this tract is now renting for $50 per acre annually. Mr. Pitts, whom every lumberman of any reputation around here knows, is an expert timber estimator. He estimates the tract to cut 16 million and up of lumber besides an immense amount of wood which sells at $4.00 per cord in Tampa.

Rehearsals are now taking place for Queen Esther to be put on at Ring's opera house in the next few weeks. It is expected that about 60 people will take part in this play.

Andy Knuteson, one of the best shingle mill men in Wisconsin is in the city now looking after the mechanical end of the shingle mill here owned by E. W. Ring.

Look Pleasant, Please.

Photographer C. C. Harlan, of Eaton, O., can do so now, though for years he couldn't, because he suffered untold agony from the worst form of indigestion. All physicians and medicines failed to help him till he tried Electric Bitters, which worked such wonders for him that he declares they are a godsend to sufferers from dyspepsia and stomach troubles. Unrivalled for diseases of the stomach, liver and kidneys, they build up and give new life to the whole system. Try them. Only 50c. Guaranteed by John E. Daly.

A YOUNG LADY'S LIFE SAVED

At Panama, Colombia, by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

—Dr. Chas. H. Utter, a prominent physician of Panama, Colombia, in a recent letter states: "Last March I had as a patient a young lady sixteen years of age who had a very bad attack of dysentery. Everything I prescribed for her proved ineffectual and she was growing worse every hour. Her parents were sure she would die. She had become so weak that she could not turn over in bed. What to do at this critical moment was a study for me, but I thought of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and as a last resort prescribed it. The most wonderful result was effected. Within eight hours she was feeling much better. Inside of three days she was upon her feet and at the end of one week was entirely well." For sale by Johnson & Hill Co. & Wood County Drug Co.

Grateful Bookkeeper.

Mr. Steve Schilling a bookkeeper of Lincoln, Ill., states: "As a user of Re-Go Tonic Laxative Syrup, I wish in a small way to show my gratitude for the good it has done me. I have been a sufferer from constipation and my digestion has been impaired, causing Heartburn and sometimes Sick Headache and Biliousness. Since I began taking Re-Go Tonic Laxative Syrup I have had none of these troubles. The Laxative effect is truly the most pleasant that I have ever experienced, mild but sure, without the griping effect so common with such remedies. Re-Go is certainly a wonder. Sold by Sam Church, druggist."
